Involvement in school activities expands

Marcos de Niza was in the midst of a transition. Key changes took place in student attitudes and pride characterizing the year as a rebuilding period. Student involvement in school activities grew with the encouragement of the administration and Student Council.

New ideas began the year on a different note. Student Council, led by president Steve Colgate, set a goal calling for "total student involvement." The hope according to Principal Bill Fitzgerald, was to build pride by getting students excited about school. Generally, school leadership wanted to return MdN to its previous levels of respect, not only athletically but academically.

6. Pleasure is expressed by Coach Tom Huber as the Padres defeat the Chaparral Firebirds in the second game of the season.

Year provides change atmosphere

In previous years, a very successful athletic program carried the weight of producing school pride. One faculty member, who has taught at MdN since its start, said when the team went down hill, spirit went with it.

This year provided an atmosphere for school pride to move from an athletic based pride, which suffers from the periodic ups and downs associated with all competition, to involvement pride, which rests upon a firm foundation of students being turned on about school. Involvement pride advocates the idea that whether a team wins or loses, the important thing to remember is the participation and the work exerted in striving for a goal.

4. Increasing student involvement was the goal of Student Council. Steve Colgate introduces that goal at the orientation assembly.

5. Senior Kelly Sneed uses the "Toga Fad" to earn his "A" in American Government.

SIP demonstrates turn around in trends

Several reasons made this year good for reform. In spite of less-than-hoped-for athletic seasons, the senior class was a leader in spirit events for three years and served as a good example while the administration, with its two new members, showed a great amount of enthusiasm toward returning student pride to previous levels.

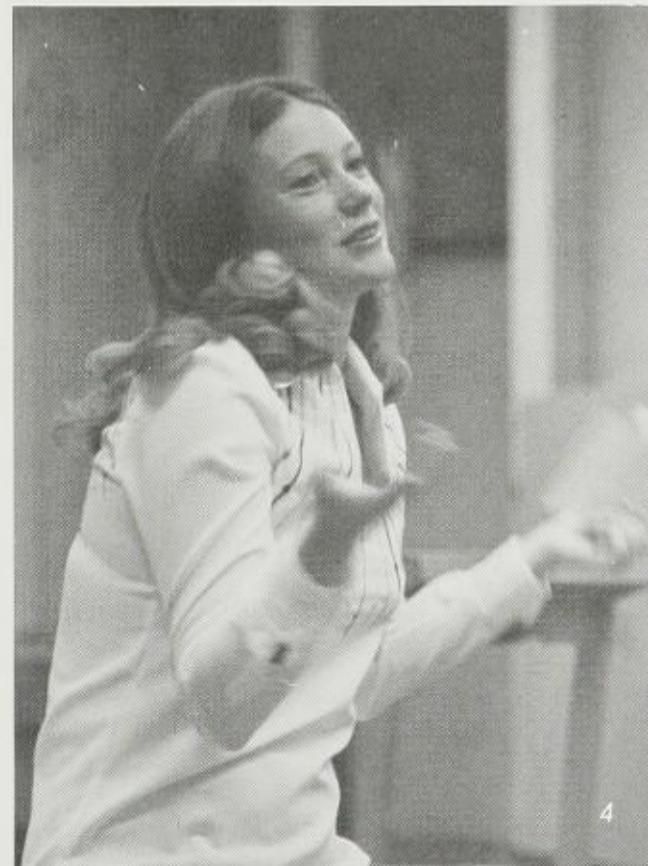

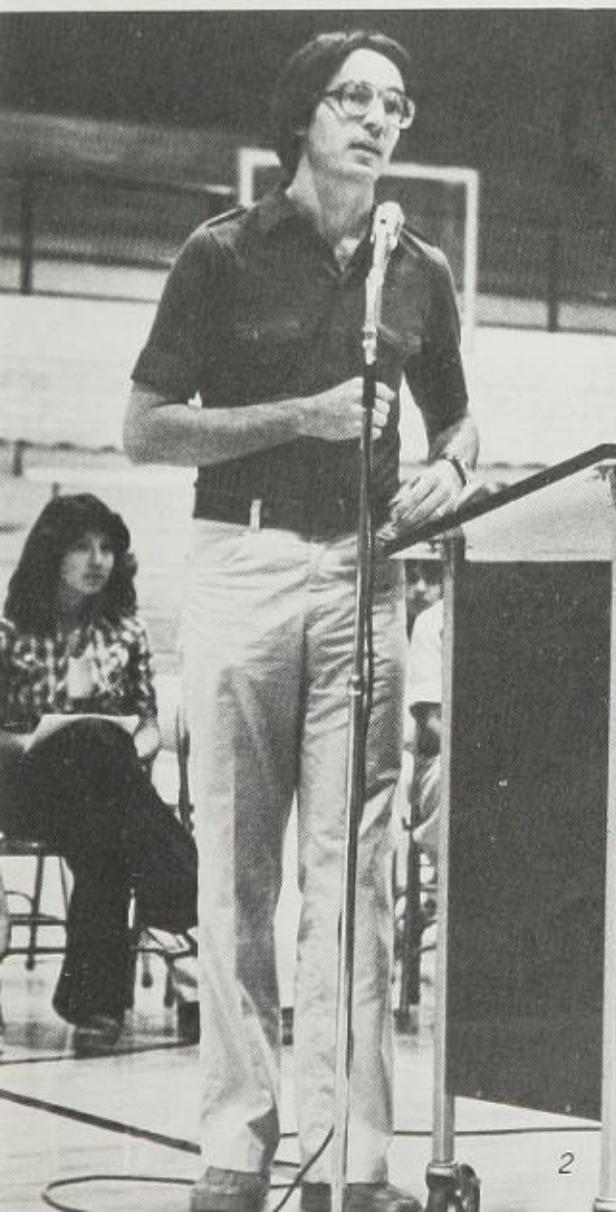

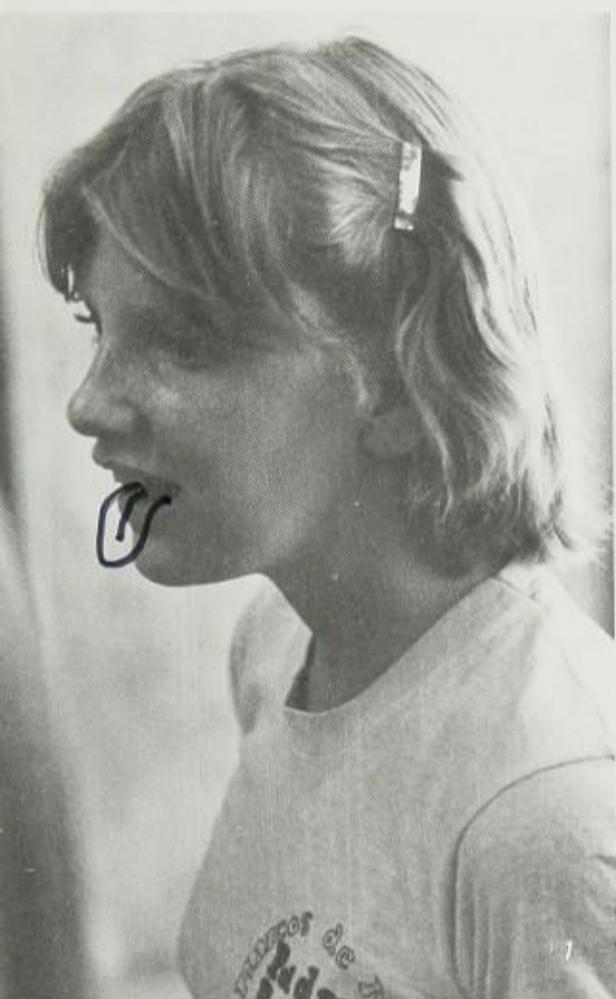

Another reason was most evident during the orientation assembly when Mrs. Gloria Smith, assistant principal, predicted a change in student attitudes.

Student Involvement Program, (SIP) designed to get students involved in school, demonstrated another attempt by the administration to encourage positive attitudes.

1. Tuba player from the Air Force band plays in the gym during a lunch period.
2. Susan Lopez looks on as Felicia Plainer demonstrates T-shirt choices to the DECA class.
3. Coach Frank Monolio looks on while the football team performs. Coach Monolio is new to the varsity staff.

Assemblies highlight schedule

The spirit stick sent almost everyone to their feet at pep rallies shouting "Padres!" It was also used for competition among the classes to determine who had the most spirit.

Mimist Dan Kamin presented two shows in a double assembly. Dan has also appeared on "Beyond Words," a show aired on channel 8, KAET-TV.

The pommies, while masquerading in clown suits, football uniforms and other costumes, danced for students at another pep rally.

For Christmas the band, A Cappella Choir and the Madrigals performed an assembly with music, songs, a skit and an appearance by Santa. Dena McMurrin, junior, presented a speech on the spirit of Christmas.

Koehnemann, Fagan reign

The 78-79 Homecoming was similar to every other in some respects, but varied in many others. For example, the event contained the usual election of homecoming royalty. However, nominees found themselves facing inclement weather.

Another typical situation was the controversy surrounding the building of homecoming floats. Supports claimed the affair was a tradition and a good way to get the students involved in the festivities. The opposite said the project was a waste of time and money.

Floats were allowed to continue, but not without mishaps. The Junior flat bed was burned and the sophomores claimed their entry destroyed by rain.

Student Council created an original theme by selecting "Just the Way You Are" and allowing the classes to individually choose themes for their floats and the seniors won the contest with a float called "Reflections".

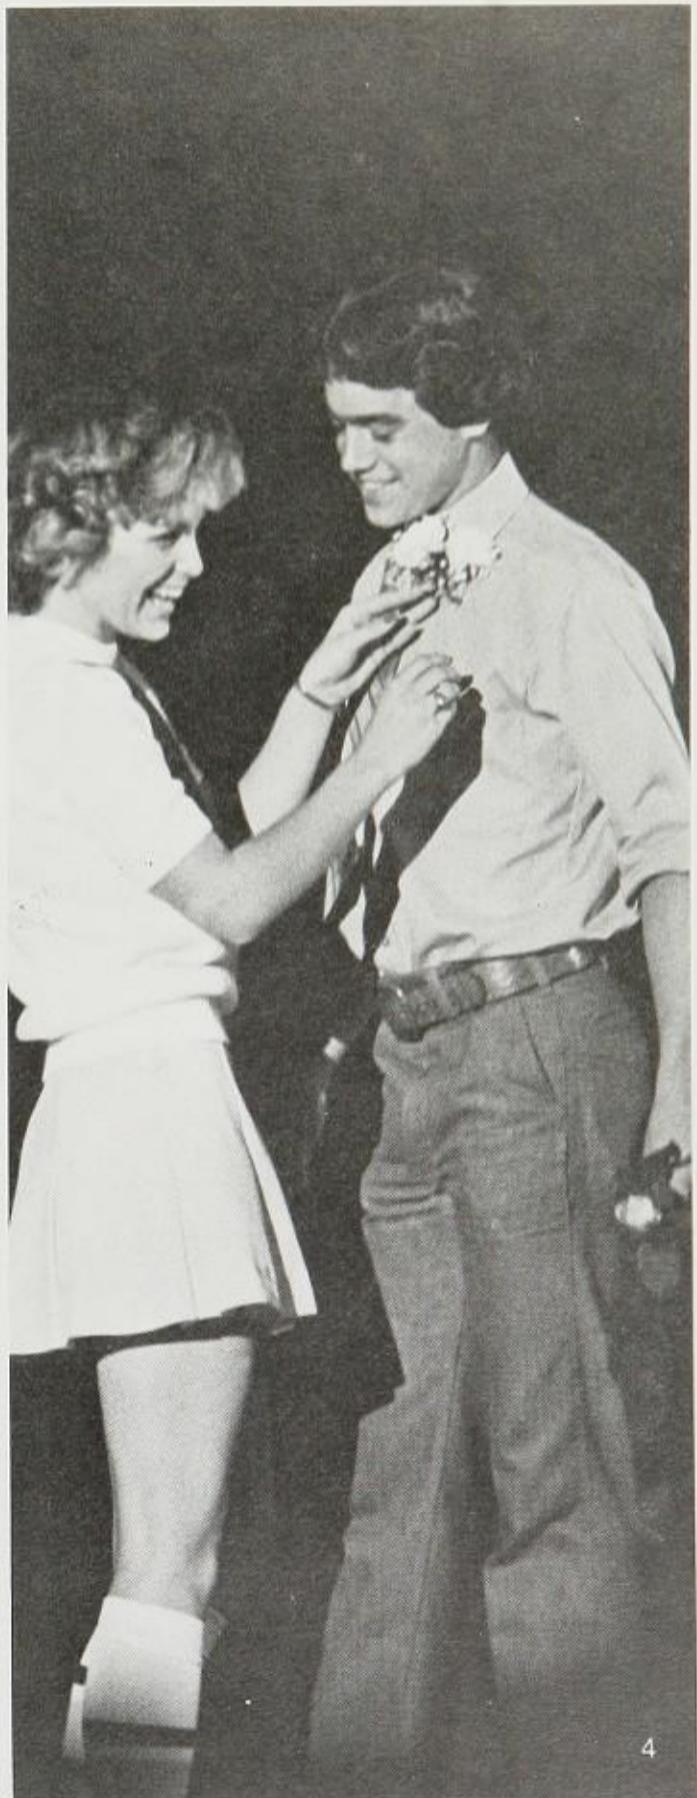

Two activities were deleted from the festivities. The traditional spirit week was eliminated and no club sponsored the spirit chains.

"Our school is a pretty good place and I hate leaving," senior J. G. Koehnemann said about graduation. "Marcos is a place to go to help me grow through people."

Although saddened by leaving, J. G. is able to reflect upon a memorable event: homecoming. He was elected 1978-79 king by the student body and expressed his excitement by saying it felt "great. Overall, it was a good night."

Involvement in various activities also highlighted J. G.'s years in high school. He participated in basketball and football and was a member of the Letter Club. Following graduation, J. G. intends to "go into business with my dad and be successful throughout life."

Homecoming big event

"You feel like a real fool being a nominee with everyone staring and Mom waving. The field was soggy and hard to walk in heels that were always sinking in the ground," said Cindy Coe, about the homecoming activities.

One homecoming activity didn't turn out as well as it was planned. With bad weather Spirit Night lacked the bon-fire, but students still paraded down Lakeshore Drive.

The homecoming dance, which featured Tobias, was after the game in the gym, from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. The decorations were a large painted mural, with crepe paper designs and plants. Everything was decorated to go with the theme "Just the Way You Are."

1. Junior escorts await the announcing of the homecoming king and queen. 2. The homecoming dance proved to be an enjoyable way to end the week of events. 3. Dewey Hopper from KTAR—channel 12 was an added attraction as this year's announcer. 4. Float building proved to be a tradition again as busy people worked on their entry. 5. The Padre gets involved in homecoming activities, too.

Fashions change annually

Many new trends and ideas have contributed to the fashions of this year. Fashions in footwear have been varied. Anything from the new look of the clog to the sleek, sophisticated look of the spiked heel shoe look appropriate with today's fashions.

Fashion minded people have also taken advantage of men's wear such as ties and vests. Both of these can be found on females as well as males.

Legs can be seen walking in skirts which are longer and narrow, and "slit-to-there" along with the sleek and form-fitting disco fashions.

1. Clogs proved to be one of the favorites in footwear. 2. Perms were in style due to their easy care. 3. Because of the movie "Animal House," toga parties became a fad of 1978-79. 4. Spiked heels along with straight leg jeans and clutch purses were big among the fashionable. 5. The men's tuxedo shirt and tie proved to be a new look. 6. Vests in every color, texture and shape were newsmakers in this year's styles.

Walkout involves students

Student Involvement Period (SIP) was on a one-year pilot program, according to Principal Bill Fitzgerald. The program was designed to help students become involved in school activities.

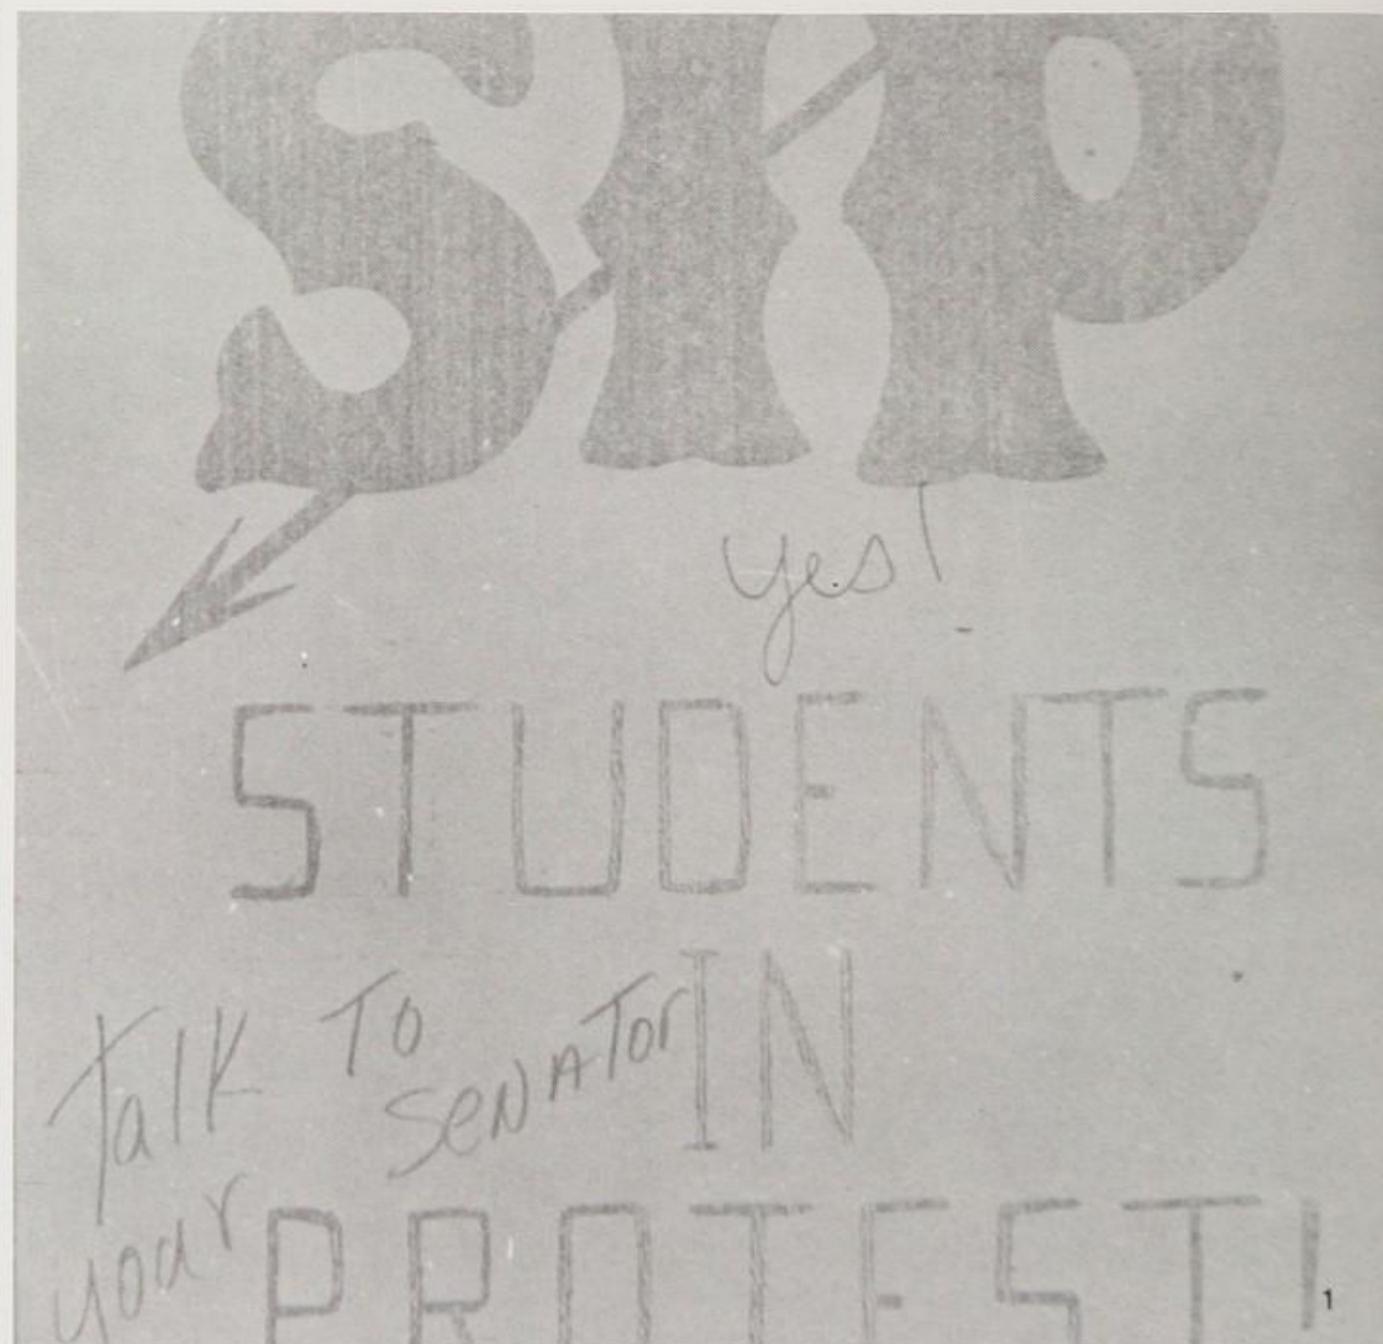

SIP was designed according to Dr. Fitzgerald with three goals and objectives in mind:

1. To provide a time frame when students and the faculty could get to know each other on a one to one basis.
2. Provide a time to explore career education and extra activities.
3. Provide a time for announcements and other administrative trivia to occur.

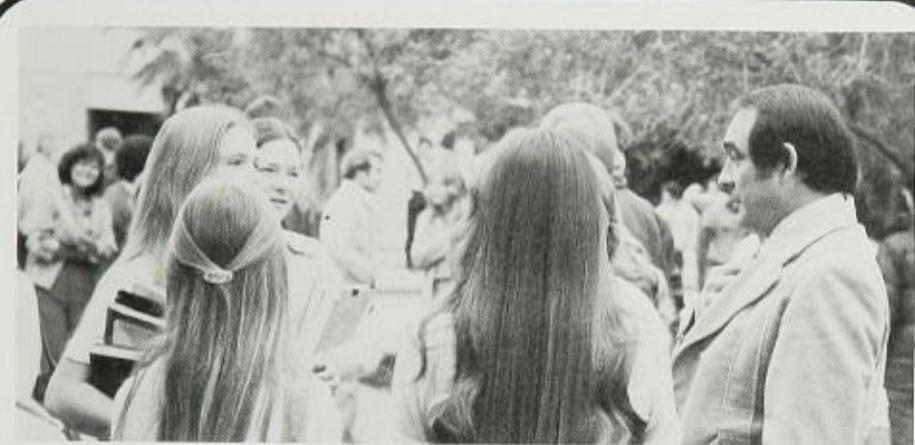

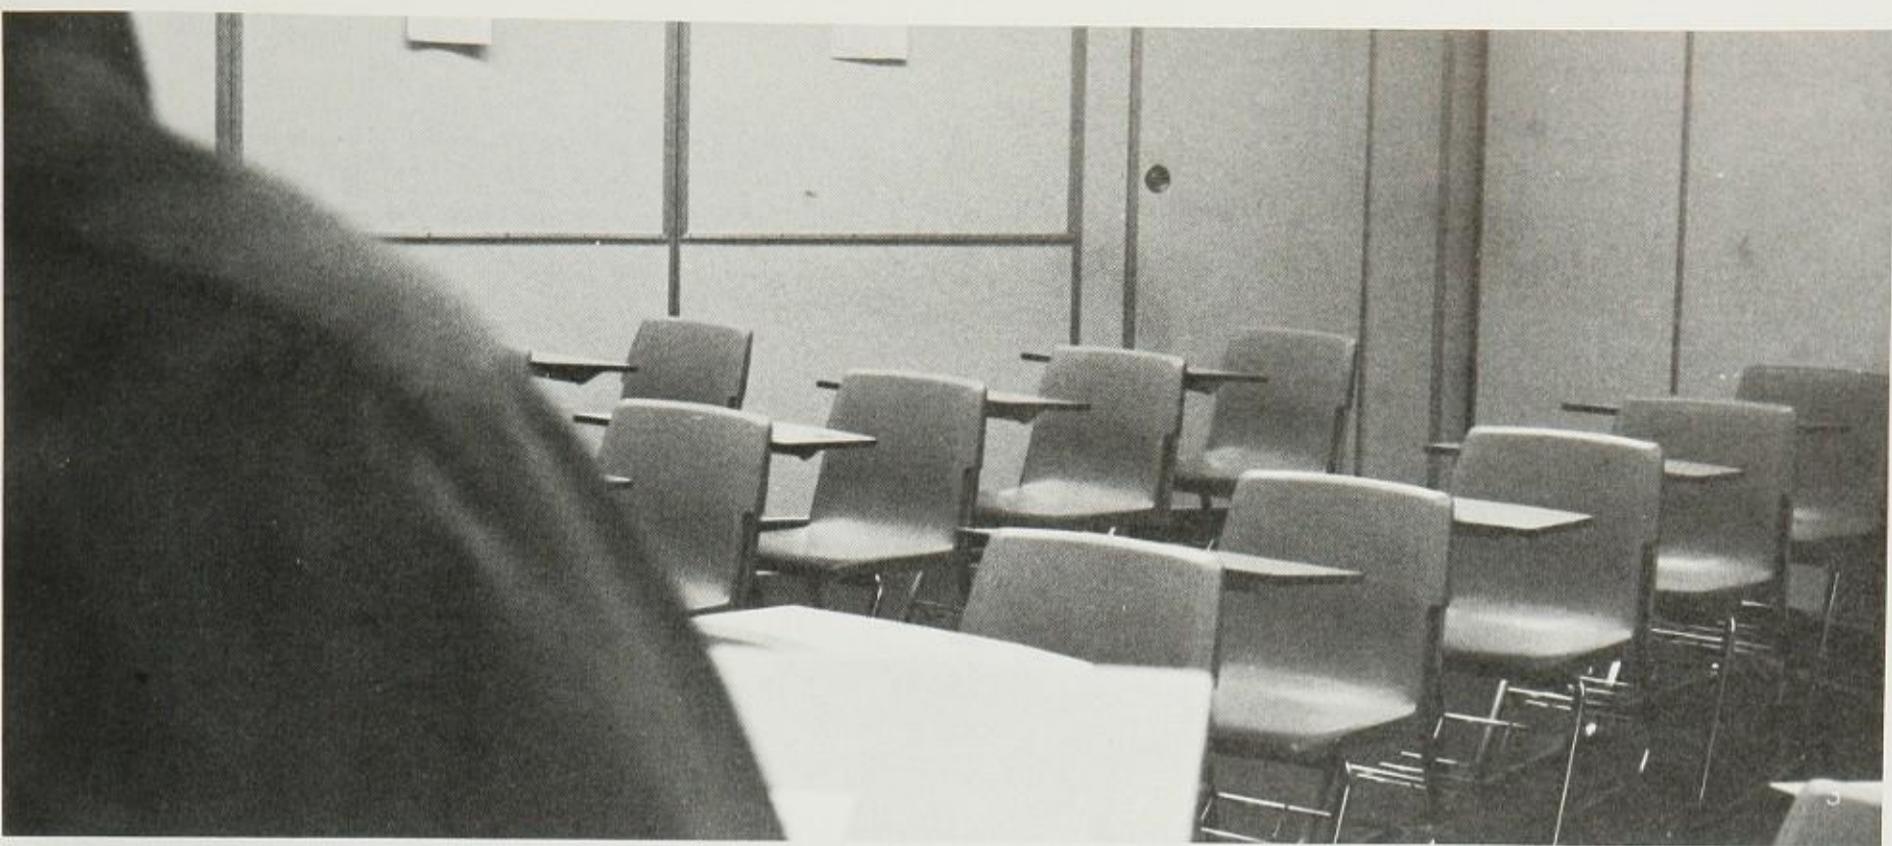

A program like SIP was needed, according to Dr. Fitzgerald, "to give students a more positive control of themselves."

SIP started out being scheduled every day for 17 minutes but was changed in November to once a week for 30 minutes because according to Dr. Fitzgerald, the class was not long enough and the faculty wanted to change.

1. Banners expressed disenchantment in the SIP system. 2. One worthwhile SIP class contributed a turkey dinner to a needy family. 3. Empty classrooms were a common sight during the SIP protest. 4. Walt Jackson expressed his feelings during the SIP walkout.

Which one is the turkey?
SIP was definitely an experience!!
Hope to see you around next year!
Karen Kay Ross

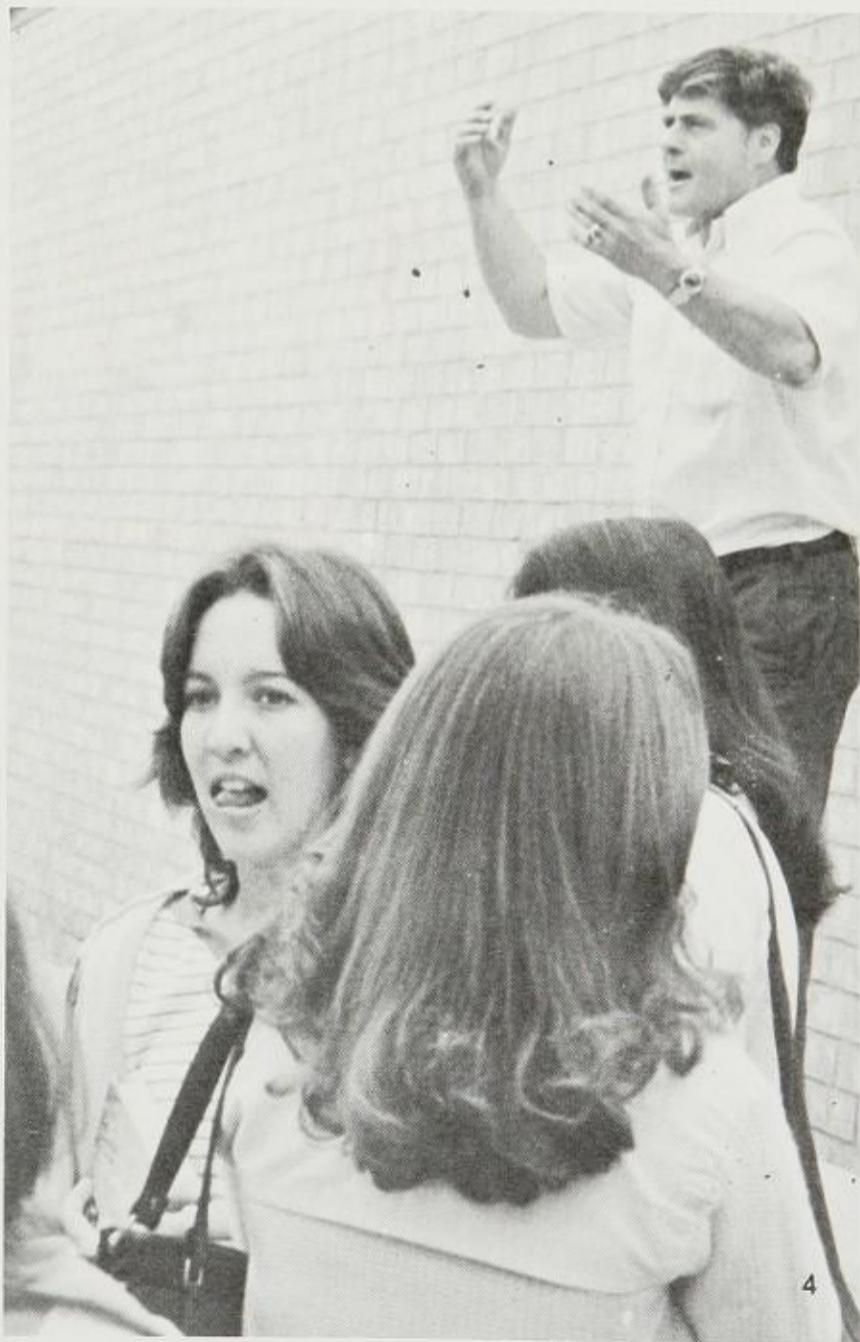

Students reacting to changes in Student Involvement Program (SIP) participated in a protest walk-out Nov. 12. The protest, which was publicized by several posters, consisted of several hundred students.

In actuality two protests were held on separate days, although the second was the only one to generate outside interest. Television crews showed up in the morning but were denied permission to film on campus. Principal Bill Fitzgerald said he did not know what good any publicity would do.

Before school on the twelfth a meeting was held with all the administrators and 30 or 40 concerned students.

The theme of the meeting centered around an explanation of goals for the SIP class and several students' specific concerns.

Tangible outcome of the meeting and protest included a student-administration committee for interpreting the SIP class. The committee put together a survey on which students were allowed to express their ideas on SIP.

First production successful

Following several months of revision and eight weeks of rehearsal, the three-act play, The Best of Them All, made its debut the later part of November.

The production, which is a collaboration of senior James Brock and Arizona State freshman Mark Litton, portrayed a publications staff attempting to produce a newspaper despite difficulties.

Gene Ganssle, Scottilyn MacDonald, Tom Booth, Mary Carlin, Jim Reil, Jackie Lowman, Ken Thompson, Joan Kauffman, Ray Warren and Lisa Herold depicted the central characters. In addition, various technical crews devoted many hours and much energy to the project.

Six instrumental musicians played the student-composed musical score under the direction of Mr. Jacob Rittenhouse, assisted by Mr. Randy Weece.

1. Joan Kauffman and Mary Carlin prepare for opening night of "The Best of Them All." 2. Cast members put a lot of feeling into their roles. 3. Gene Ganssle portrays Ross, the hero of the play. 4. The entire cast of The Best of Them All receives their recognition.

Lights! Camera! Action! Although Marcos de Niza is not New York's Greenwich Village, senior James Brock has presented the student body with a glimpse of Broadway.

James and ASU student Mark Litton wrote The Best of Them All, a musical which was received with tremendous applause. But when the production was introduced to drama students, "mixed reactions" were evident. James said, however, they were intrigued by the originality.

Many persons devoted their efforts to improving the play and "when the dust cleared, they (drama students) performed it." Ironically, James' parents were unaware of the plot until the premiere. Their enthusiasm was apparent for they attended the show each night. "Now they know what I did with my time," he said.

Although James considers originating the musical his "biggest learning experience," he looks forward to the time when he can "put it on the shelf." Smiling, the playwright recalled when The Best of Them All was the only thing of great importance to him. He plans to continue writing but only as a hobby.

Arizona takes a swim

During the year of 1978-79, Arizona saw many unusual weather problems. The most familiar was the flooding of the mighty Salt River which happened three times during the year. After the river flooded, only three bridges remained open for traffic. Many people were angry because it took two-three hours to get from Tempe to Phoenix or Scottsdale.

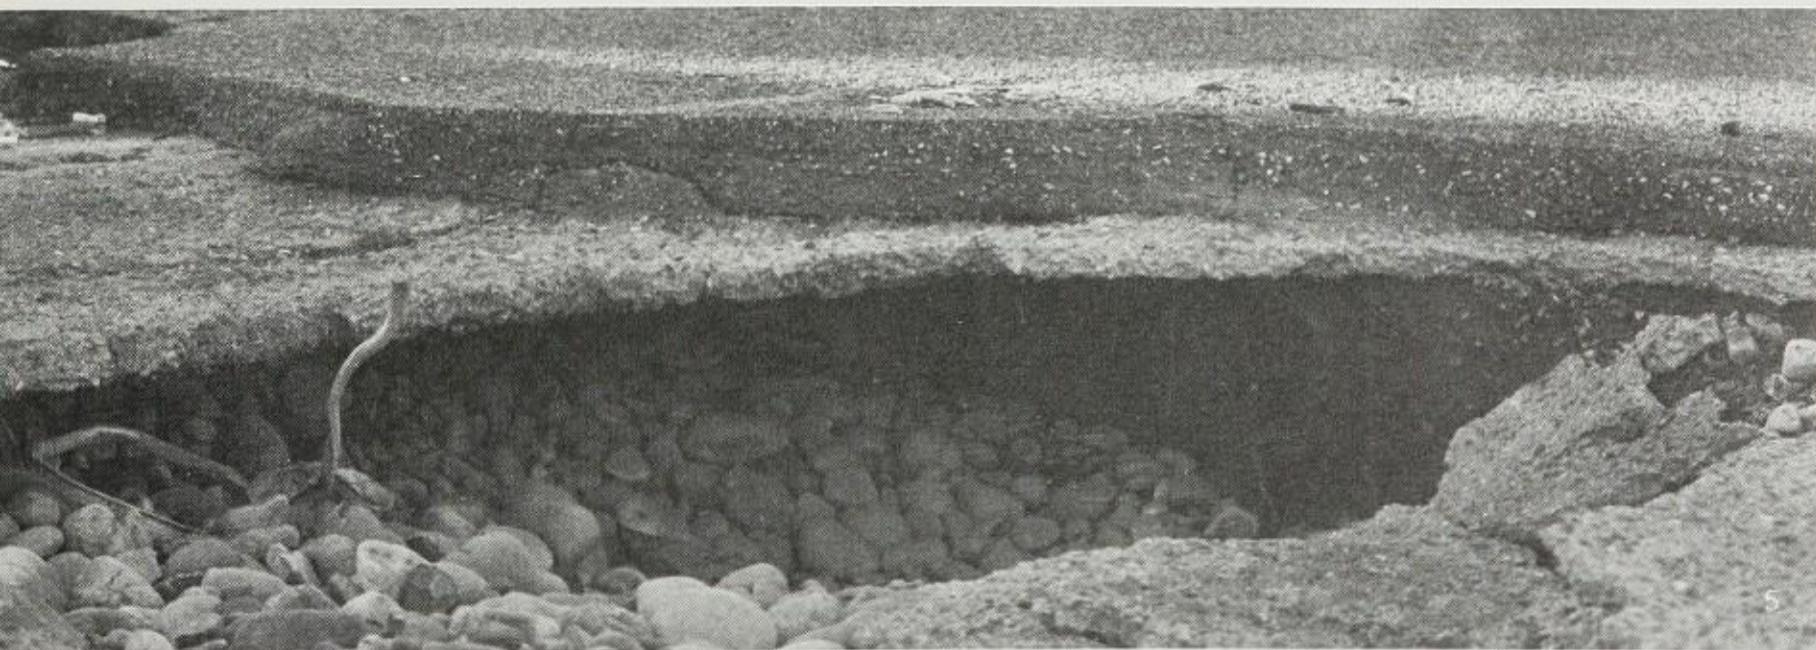

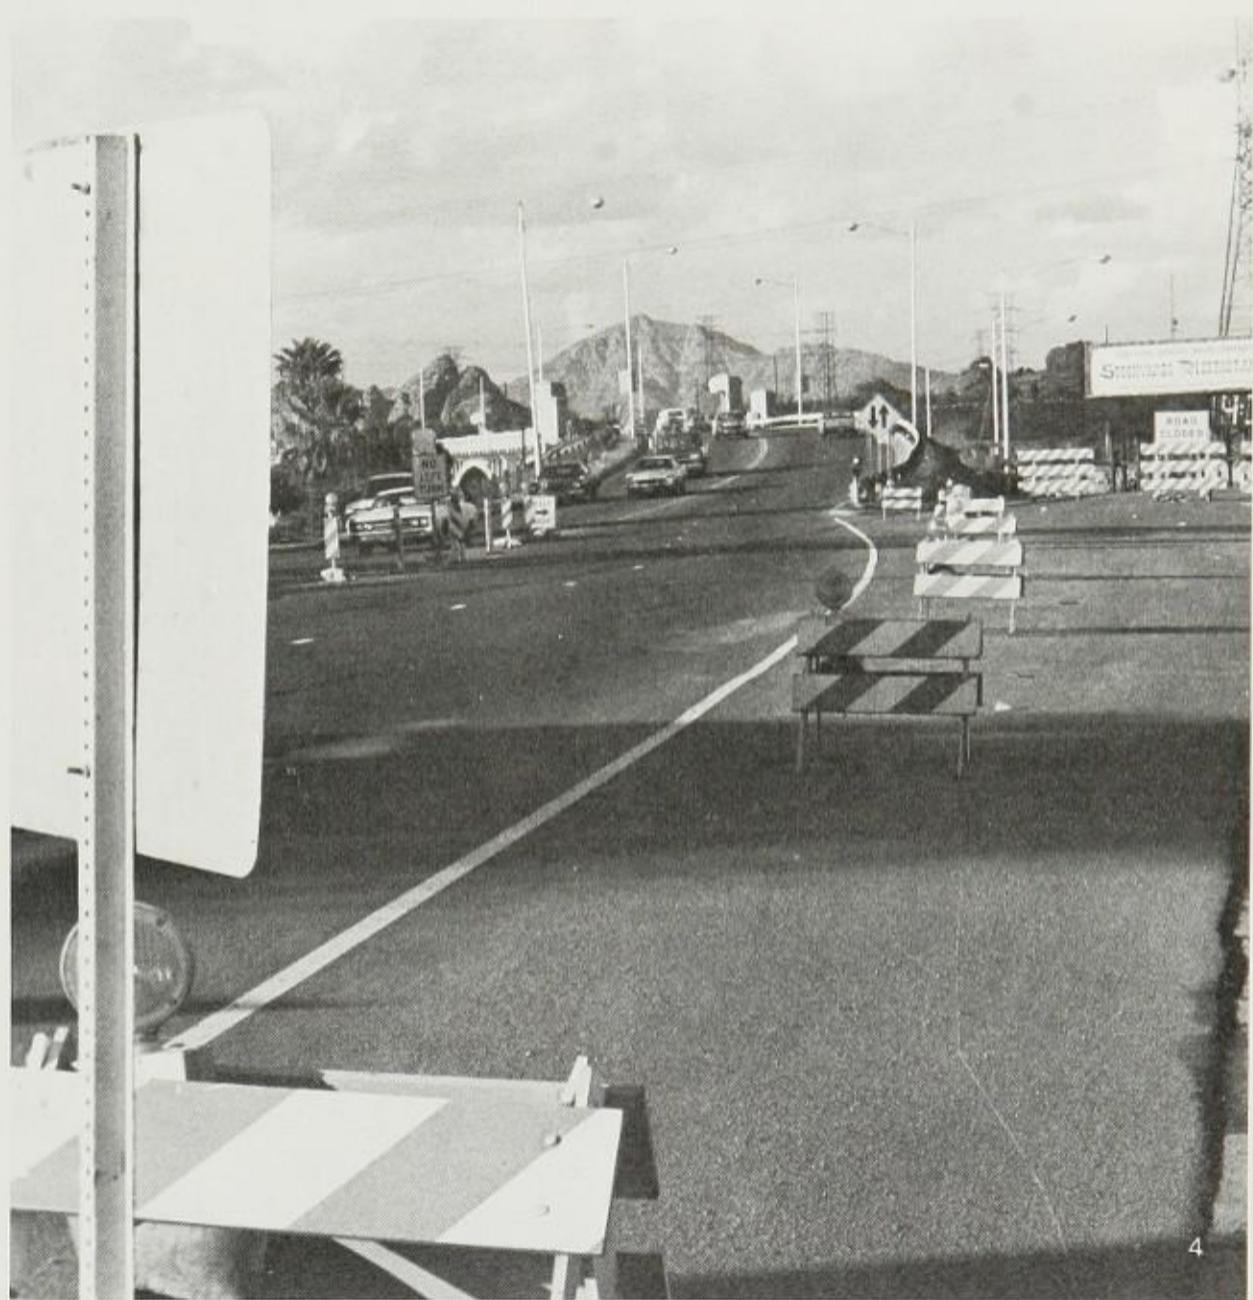

Farmers saw a year of defeat against rain and early frost. Cotton farmers lost many thousands of dollars to the weather. During the school year of 1978-79, Arizona received 10 inches of rain. The previous year the state had only five inches. Finally, Arizona saw spring-time, and the floods became history.

1. The familiar Tempe Bridge was seen with a swift current underneath. 2. Traffic was a problem due to the fact that many bridges were washed out. 3. The railroad tracks in Tempe had a new look as water rolled below. 4. Many new roads and bridges were destroyed due to the flood. 5. Road blocks and detour signs were a common sight during the days of rain.

David,
This page brings up a lot of reflective questions. Why am I signing on this page?
Why didn't I drop Kinney's class after first semester? Who won the Heisman Trophy in 1958?
(Hm, I used to know that one)

Well, now that I've written a bunch of garbage (it's been real nice not knowing you too, & it's not knowing that sounds horrible) so that everyone will think that I'm a really well God that I see you next year, & I b & hope I see you senior year I don't when I'll see you then too, see ya

Expressions individual

Just think, if one would consider the consequences of concealing emotions, expressing happiness would not be that difficult.

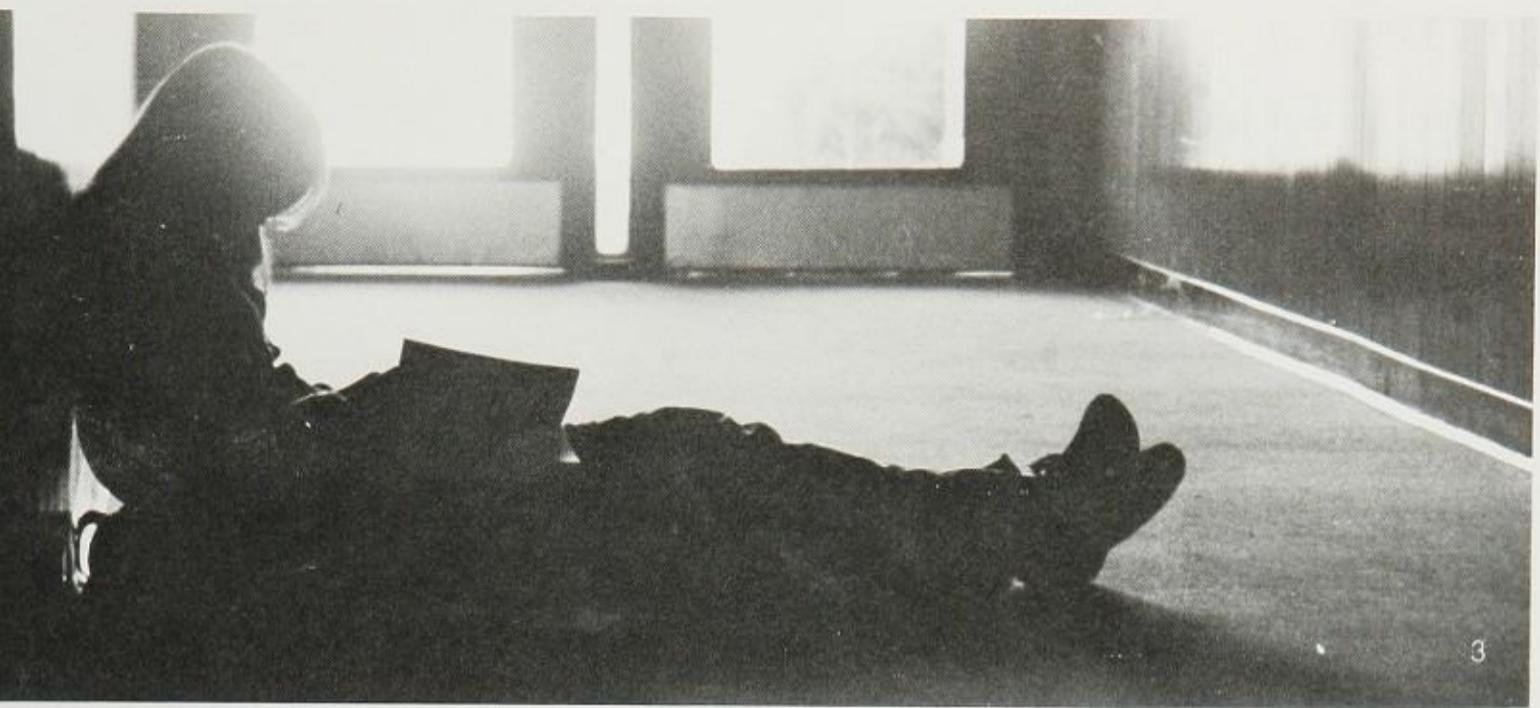

For example, if someone receives a high score on a very important test, naturally that person will reveal a great big smile. However, one may be in disguise for fear or unhappiness that he or she may be disliked because of their true identity. Unfortunately, this situation occurs much too often.

True expressions need not always be joyous, but perhaps more smiles would appear if the students would start to communicate with their exhilarations and miseries by taking the "masks" off of their faces.

Perhaps the expressions illustrated on a person's face and mind are attributed to the campus life.

Goatropers rule

Role reversal was the key as girls took their turns on the gridiron and guys acted as cheerleaders. The Goatropers and the Leathernecks squared off in a Powderpuff football game.

Though the event was cancelled last year, more than 80 girls showed up for the first practice. Head Coach Jack Nolan said he was pleased with the turnout.

After 30 minutes of warfare on the field, the Goatropers emerged victorious over the Leathernecks by a score of 14-6. However, members of both teams held back hard feelings and went to the local fast food stop to socialize.

1. A dance and dinner was a common date for many high school students. 2. A familiar sight is couples walking together between classes. 3. This time it is the girls who are getting tackled. 4. Rivalry and spirit were displayed on a classroom chalkboard before the big Powderpuff game. 5. To Breshini, a cheerleader for Powderpuff, displayed a winning spread jump for spectators.

Students experience new culture

"It is really a learning experience to work with them because they are bright and receptive students," said English teacher Ms. Kathy Walske, regarding foreign students.

Foreign exchange students at Marcos de Niza established the International Club. It was introduced to meet students who are from different countries and interested in learning about other countries.

Marco Perea, from Mexico, was on the school diving team. Another student participated in Ski Club.

Exchange students are here for six months to one year. They live with families who apply in advance through the Foreign Student Exchange program.

1. Foreign students take interest in a new culture.
  2. Marco Perea from Mexico enjoys his new friends in a new country.
  3. Foreign students take their studies seriously.
  4. Jo Mundy from Australia reflects on her many experiences in the United States.
  5. Australian Jenny Armstrong enjoyed the many new things she learned in a different country.

Sports participation varies

Coach Dennis Powell thought he was giving the freshman athletes pride, but he was wrong. Gold Crush Fever has swept the entire athletic department affecting sophomores, juniors and seniors as well as freshmen.

The Mini Padre football team was led by running back Loren Whipple and kicker Sam Zamora, who broke all of the frosh B kicking records. The Mini Padres crushed their opponents to post a 8-1-1 season record. Their defeat was handed to them by the McClintock Chargers, 7-16. Boys' frosh tennis displayed a 3-1 record midway through the season and went on, backhanding adversaries as they went, to end the season with a 9-4 record.

People's interest vary

Various clubs exist to meet certain standards set by the students.

The main fund raising event this year was the sale of bagels sold by the snack bar also.

"MECHA has been really active this year," according to Mrs. Gloria Smith, vice-principal. The selling of mini-footballs by MECHA club was the first of its kind.

Students plan holiday activities

Holidays are a time to be happy and celebrate a special occasion. At MdN activities were planned for many holidays which helped students get in the spirit of things.

In October some students participated in the Jaycee haunted house while others were frightened by the ghosts and goblins.

Many students had their pictures taken with the All-American Turkey in celebration of Thanksgiving. The event was sponsored by Key Club. Pictures with the old jolly man himself were still in vogue during the Christmas season. Student Council persuaded Matt Marino to represent Santa Claus.

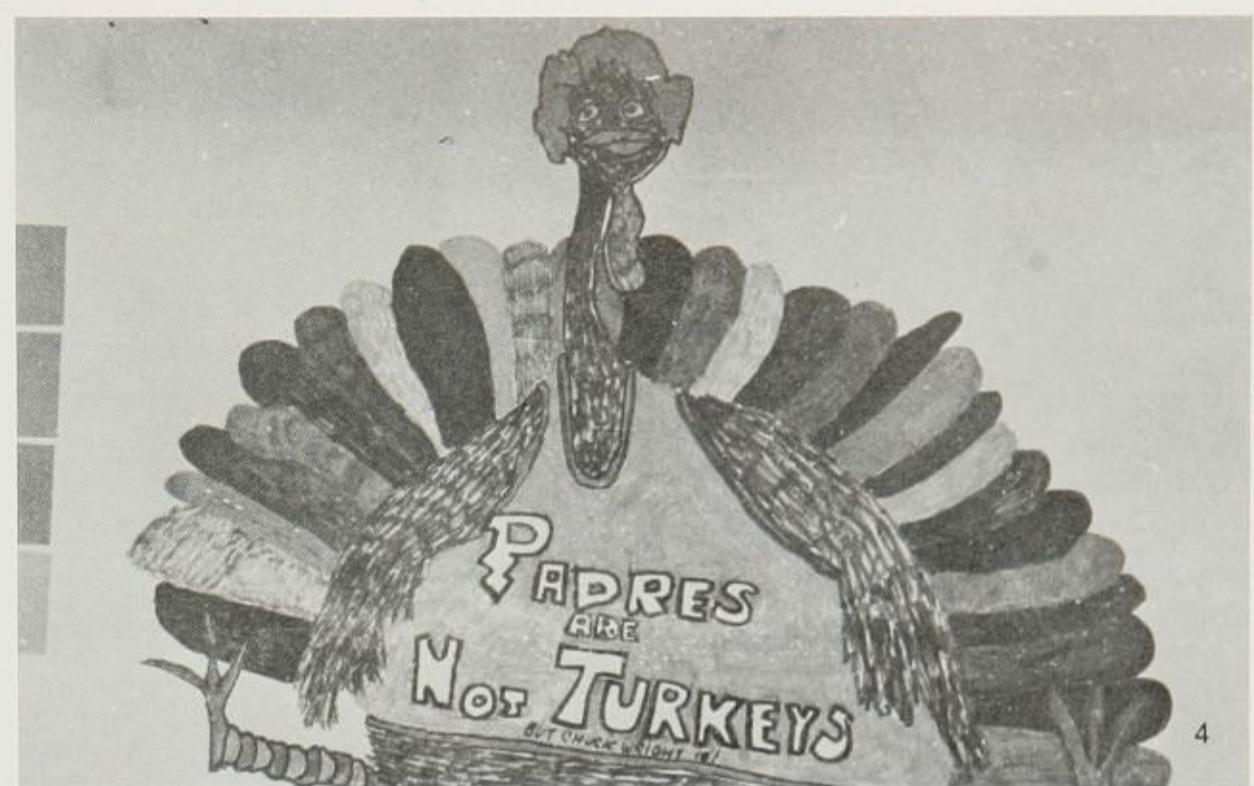

Activities for Christmas included a concert presented by the choir and band members. "A Heavenly Christmas" was the theme of the Christmas Dance, also sponsored by Key Club.

The traditional Valentine carnations, usually sold by Swim Club, were affected by the winter freeze. Flowers were too expensive. However, singing Valentines were sold and performed by the senior class.

Students and teachers welcome the break in routine holidays bring.

1. A witch is a familiar sight at a local haunted house.
2. During the Christmas concert, drama students recited "The Night Before Christmas."
3. Senior Jamie Thompson displays her Halloween spirit.
4. Students are not turkeys when it comes to getting involved.
5. Senior Matt Marino portrays the "Jolly Ol' Elf."

78-79 contains joy, tragedy

The year of 1978-79 was a time of many momentous events: more floods, United States severed relationships with Taiwan and established new ones with China, the revolution in Iran as they struggled for a new government, the unsettled peace between Israel and Egypt and finally, the mass suicide at Jones-town, Guyana.

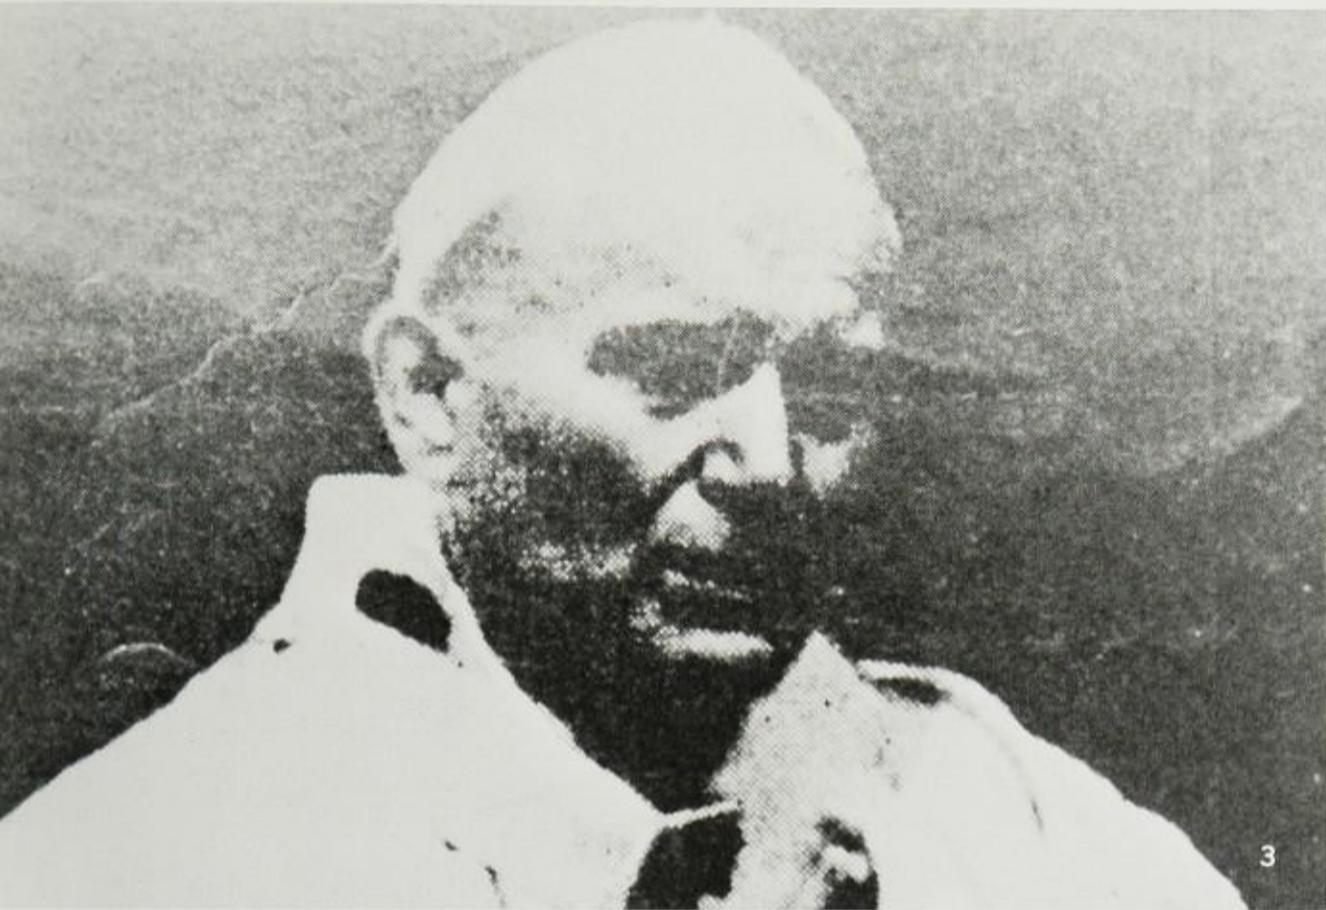

One event that particularly stood out in the year's events was the experience of two new popes. About one month after John Paul I was chosen, he died in his sleep. His successor, John Paul II, was the first Polish pope ever elected made the event more momentous.

This is also the year in which Arizona State University entered the Pacific 10 Conference. One of its most triumphant events of the season was ASU's upset over the University of Southern California with a score of 21-3, leaving ASU with an overall record of 8-3. Not bad for the first year!

Once again flooding took over the valley. Rivers overflowed and many people were left homeless and in need of help. Conditions got so bad in some areas that Governor Bruce Babbitt was forced to declare some counties as national disaster areas.

1. China and the United States establish new relationships.
2. Fighting and riots were not uncommon during Iran's fight for a new government.
3. Pope John Paul II was the first Polish pope.
4. Gas prices, along with everything else, went up.

This is the era of the rising prices. Long gone are the days of a bottle of pop for a nickel and penny candy. Dimestores should be called "dollar-stores" due to the reoccurring upping of prices.

It seems like every time one goes into the store, the prices have gone up a few cents more. The cheaper things get expensive and the already expensive things go out of sight.

For instance, the average loaf of white bread now sells for approximately 79 cents. Didn't it once cost a dime?

And coffee, the beverage that some people live on, wake up to and relax with, is now selling for about $2.69 per pound!

Dreaming of a Corvette? Well, a new Corvette sold for up to $13,500 in 1978, but now they start about there and an extra $1,000-$2,500 can be tacked on depending on availability and demand.

Movie tickets have gone up, also. The movie "Superman" is now $4 a ticket while the average movie now costs anywhere from $3-4, unless it is possible to pass for someone under 12.

Even the Marcos de Niza yearbook has been affected. Last year it sold for $9 but this year it sold for one crisp $10 bill.

Rivals part of school life

Rivalry between the Tempe Union High Schools has grown to more than just teams fighting it out on the field, court or diamond. It has grown to competition between clubs, classes and school techniques.

Tempe High, the oldest of the four high schools, has a new video production class. The students produce television shows for channel eight.

Corona del Sol, meaning school of the sun, is one of the few solar-powered schools in the country. Their school mascot, an Aztec, originated from the Aztec Solar Power Company.

The defending State AAA champions in football, the McClintock Chargers, failed to make the playoffs this year. The Chargers suffered losses to Coronado High, Westwood High and a last-second loss to the new state champions Mountain View.

Students utilize spare time

Disco dancing at Sun Devil Lounge was one of the main attractions of most teenagers in their limited spare time.

Spare time and laziness must not be confused. "Spare time provides many opportunities to examine one's innerself," said a student during a survey, "but laziness is just sleeping or laying around."

Some students feel they didn't have enough spare time to do anything that they wanted to get done, besides doing homework, but if they had too much time, they would be bored.

Other activities such as raquetball, tennis, basketball, skateboarding, movies, "cruising main," and reading played a big part in filling a lot of spare time for teenagers.

1. A game of touch football with friends occupies weekends.
2. Homework is something that most students end up doing whether they like it or not.
3. Shopping served as a favorite past time for many girls.
4. Between classes, students take the opportunity to visit with friends.
5. Playing football with a notebook paper football can always be found in a boring classroom.

'Mad money' reason for job

Battling with the Internal Revenue Service was one of the problems working teenagers faced. One student said, "It gives you a taste of the real world and helps you grow up faster."

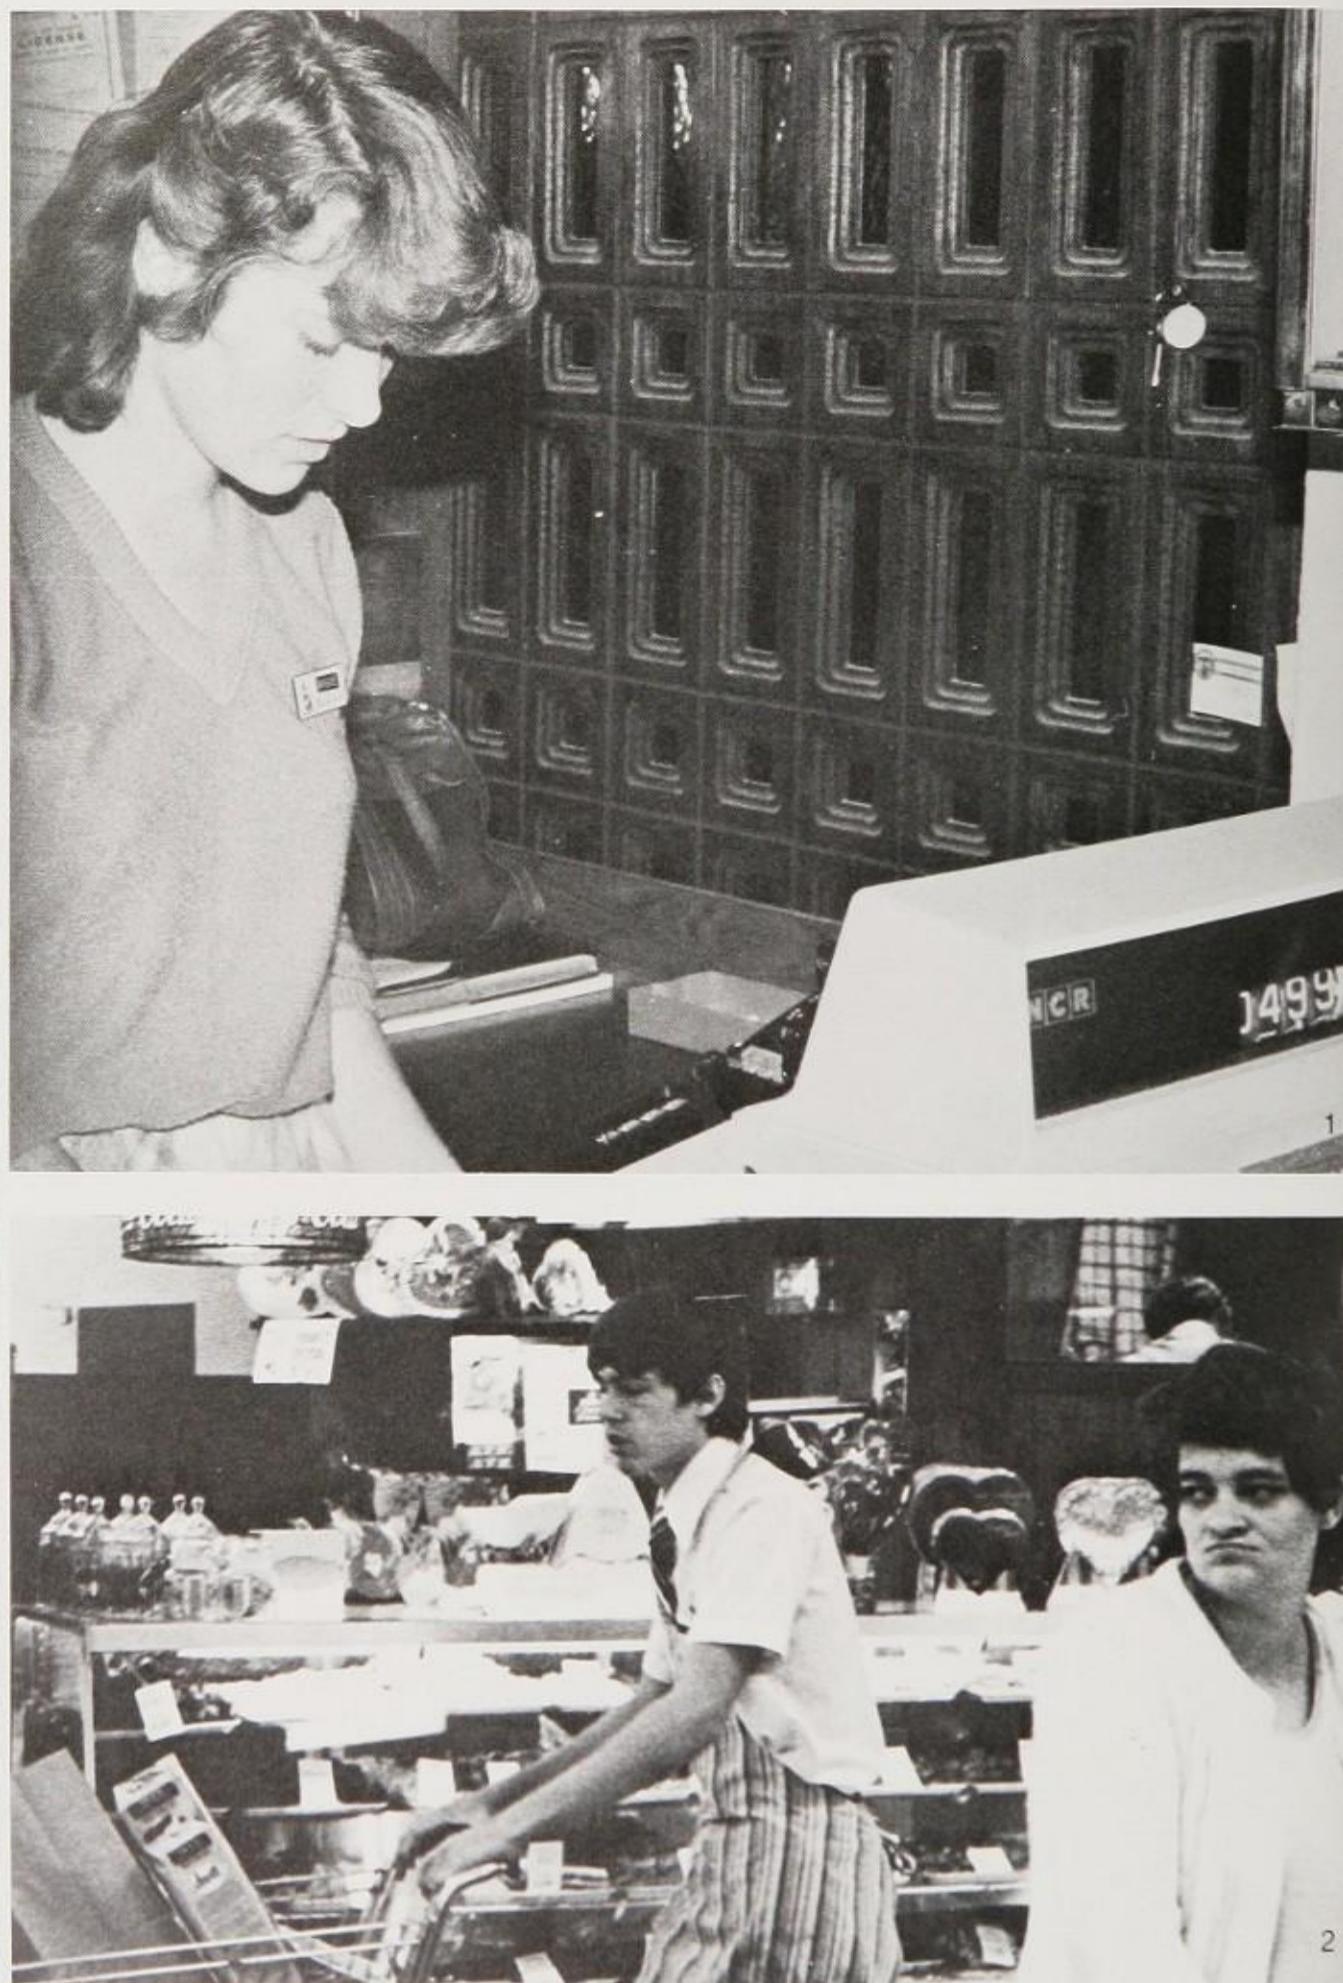

This was one of the problems with the working world and only making minimum wage of $2.90 an hour was another. But students felt they needed a job to be independent and not rely on parents for money every time they got "a Big Mac attack".

Another popular advantage of entering "the working world" is the new found ability to buy good clothes, or even cars. Other students just like the security of "having a few bucks in the bank".

Though many working teens intend to put part of their paycheck in the bank, this is often easier said than done. One student said, "I try my best to put some cash in the bank, but I always find a sale and that's the end of my money."

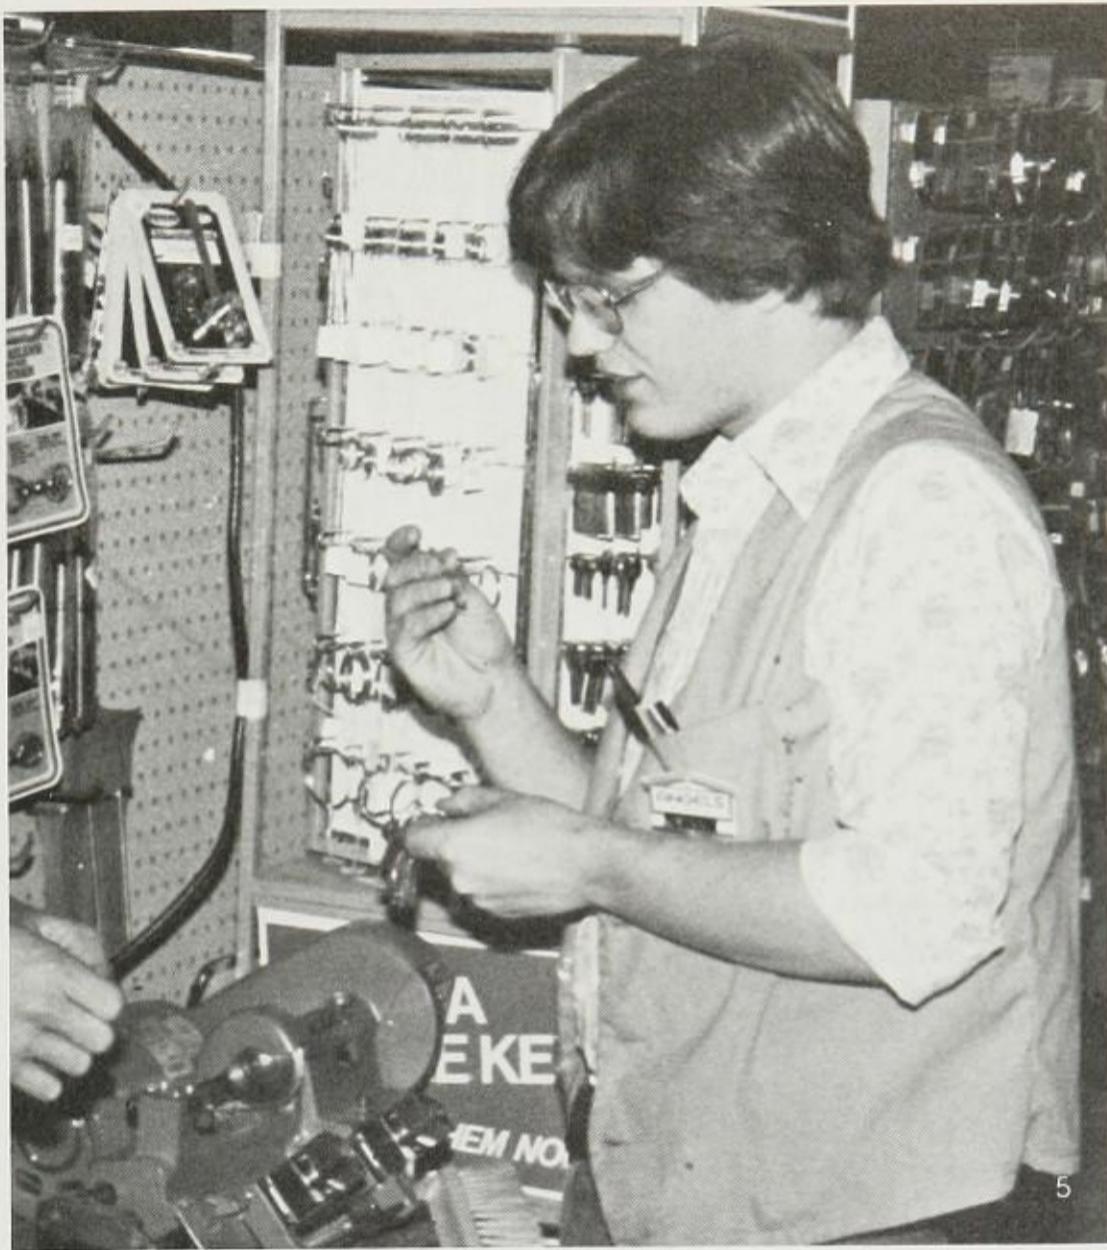

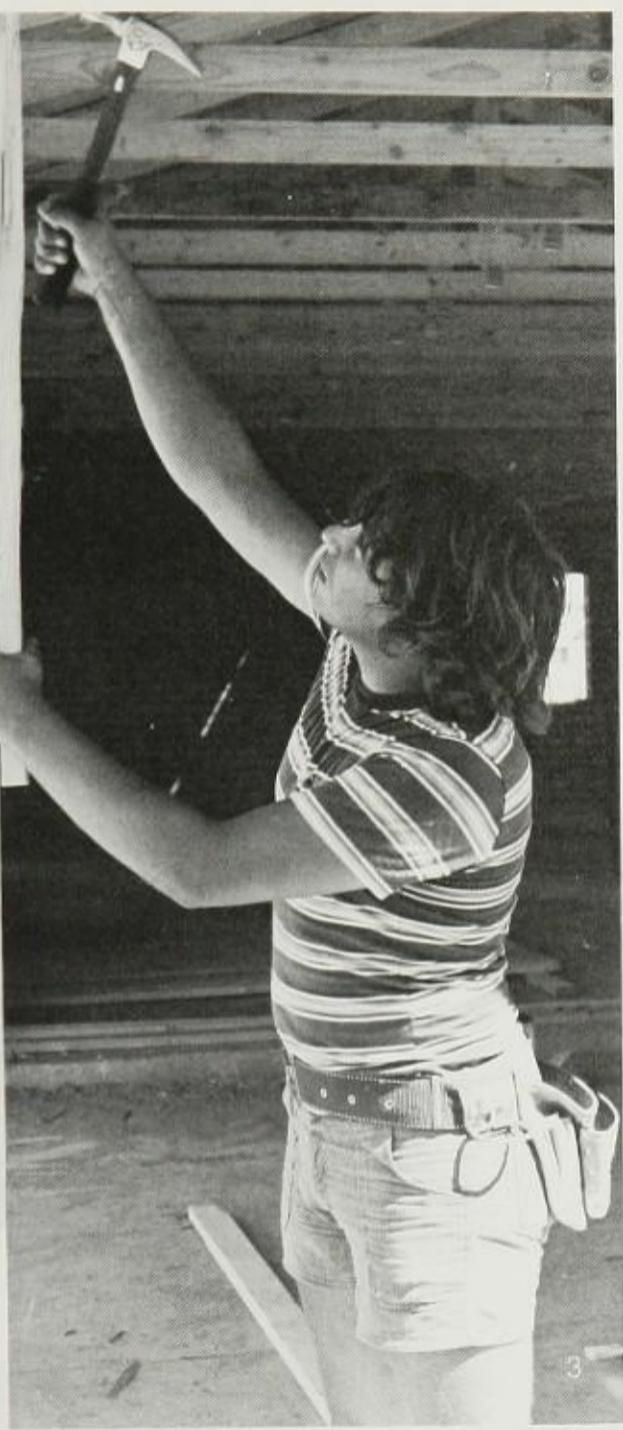

One student could pinpoint the exact reason why he started working. "I looked at my withdrawal and deposit slips and the withdrawals far outnumbered the deposits, so I got a job to even it up."

1. Junior Angie Allen deals with money and people as a hostess at Jolly Roger restaurant.
2. Being a bagboy at a nearby grocery store is a good standby for jobs for Harold Chapell.
3. Being a carpenter served as a good job for Matt Hartig.
4. Mary Kane enjoys her job at Wendy's.

'Nothing could be finer . . .'

In addition to winning the float competition in their junior and senior years, the class of '79 sponsored the homecoming parade and dumped fliers on the stunned McClintock student body.

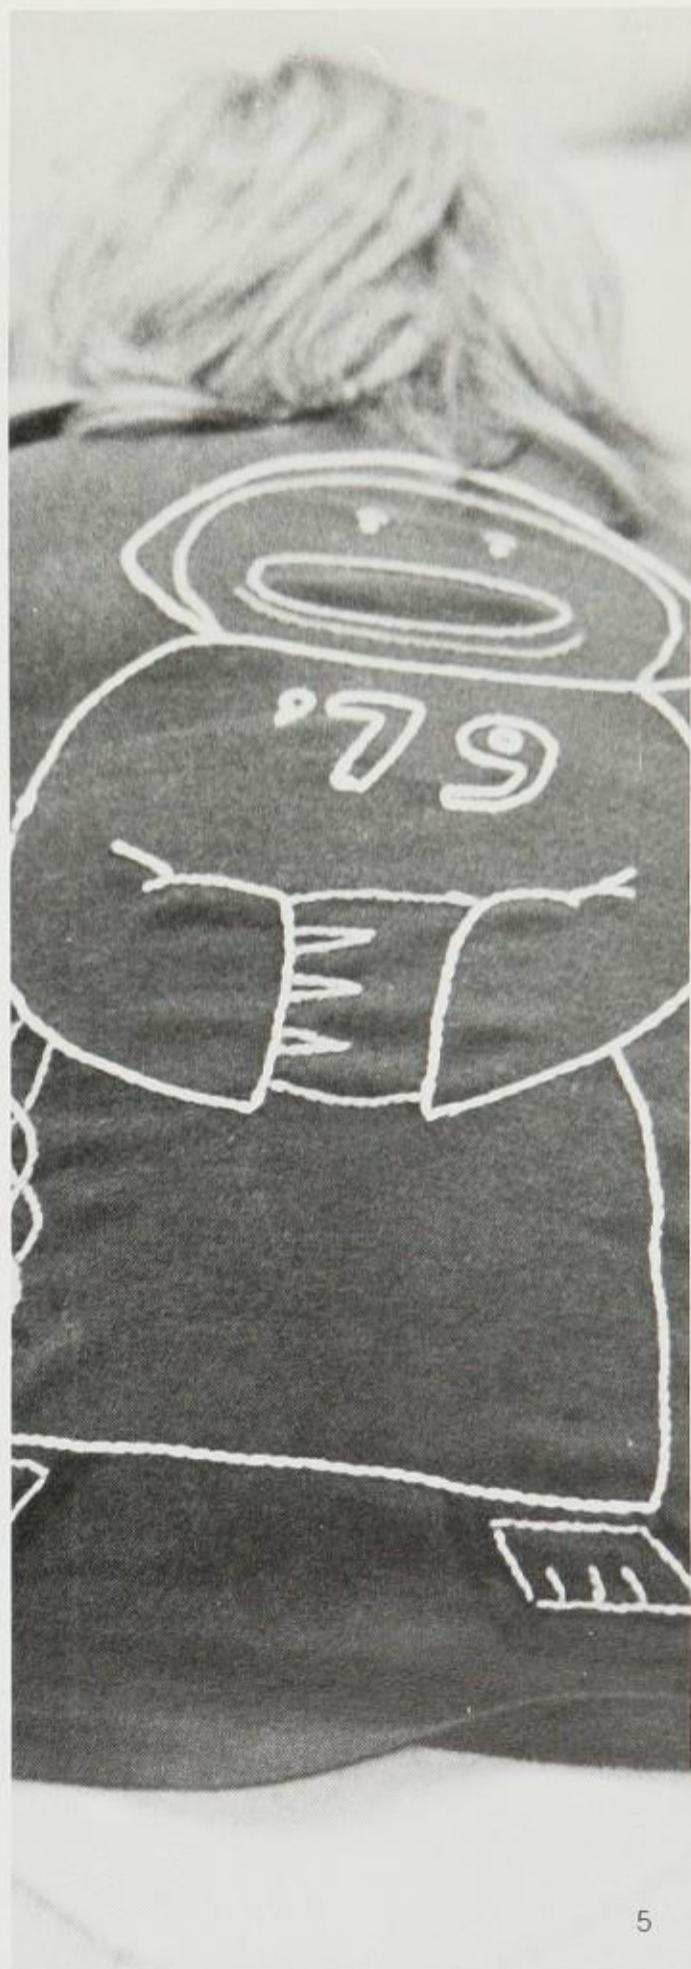

The officers felt it was important to revive the old tradition of a hike down Lakeshore Drive and subsequent bonfire. Board of Supervisors member Doug Baldwin said the main reason for the parade was "to get the enthusiasm of the school going for homecoming and keep it going through the weekend."

Activities such as parades can be costly and the officers devised methods of fund raising that were unique. "Singing Valentines," original poems sung to modern tunes, was a project since their freshman year. However, the seniors also showed initiative by providing the opportunity for students to purchase senior T-shirts. "We wanted something special for our class and it was a good fund raiser, too," Doug said.

Even after graduation, the seniors won't stop planning events. Class of '79 members should start preparing for their next activity: a 20-year class reunion in (of course) 1999.

1. Seniors enjoy the time they have to eat and relax.
2. Senior Debbie Eveld enjoys the bus ride to the DECA conference in Safford.
3. Roger Rich and Steve Colgate promote the band's annual Spaghetti Dinner.
4. Seniors have devised various methods of getting through high school.
5. The spirit of '79 lives everywhere.

Juniors plan for Hyatt

"We had problems with officers not attending the meetings," said junior class president Phyllis Rios. "But other than that, everyone works really well together and we accomplished the things that need to be done."

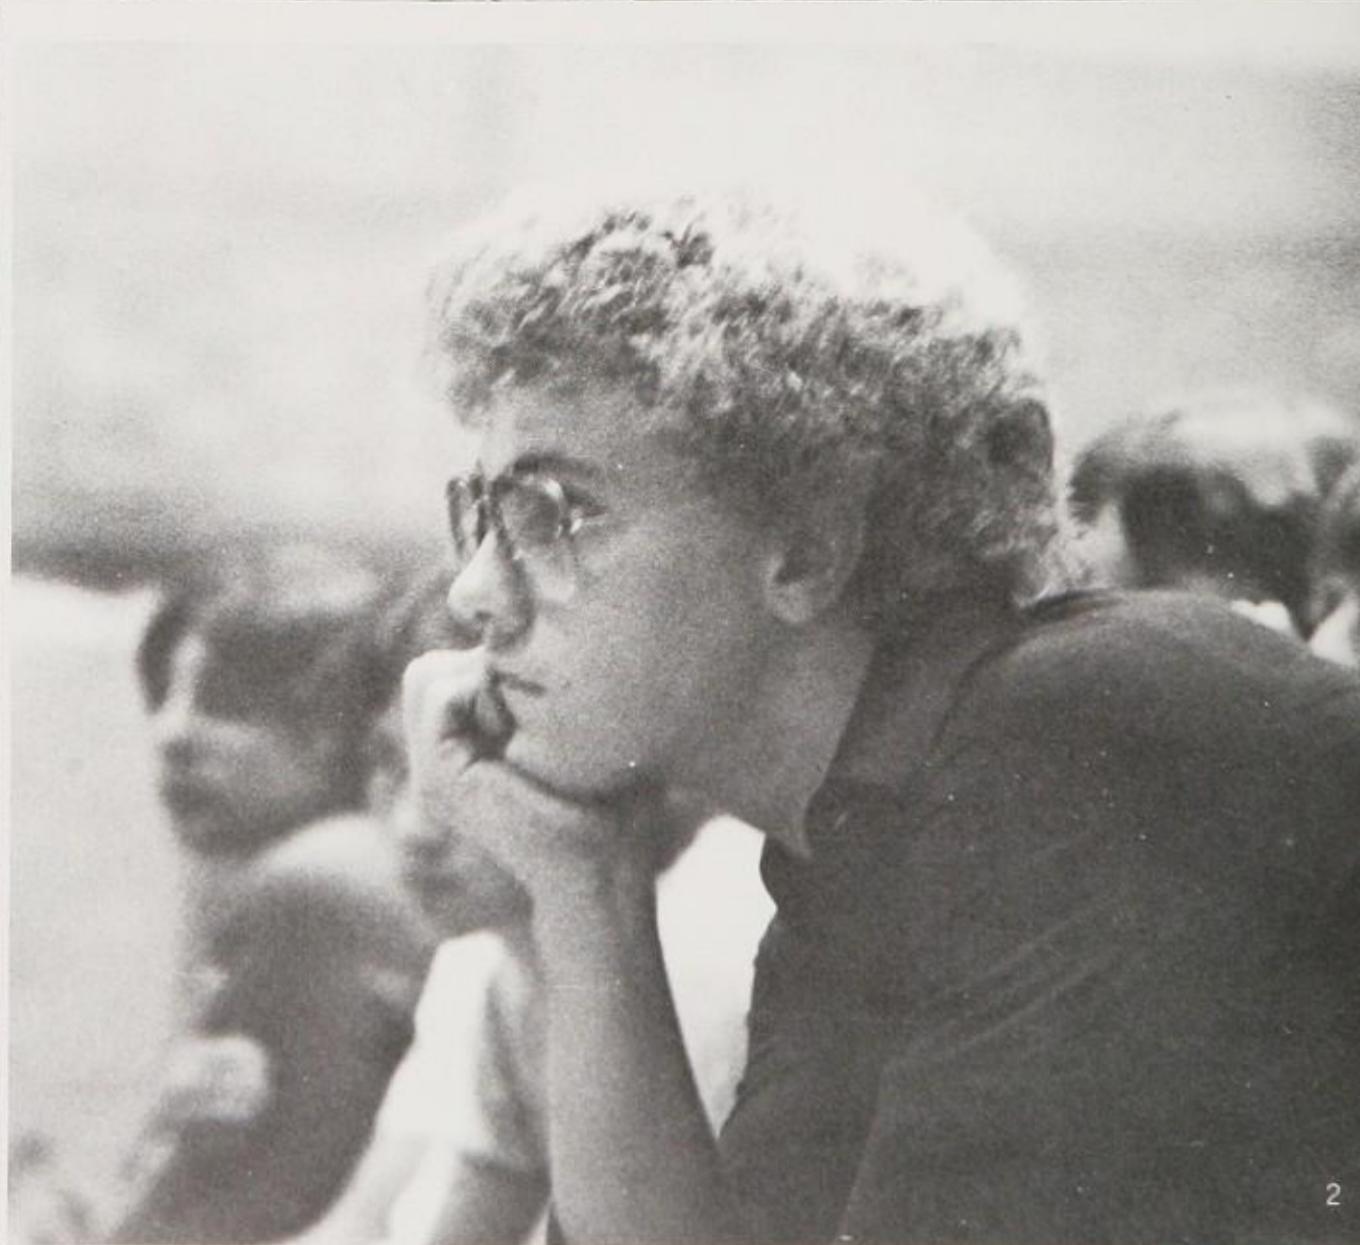

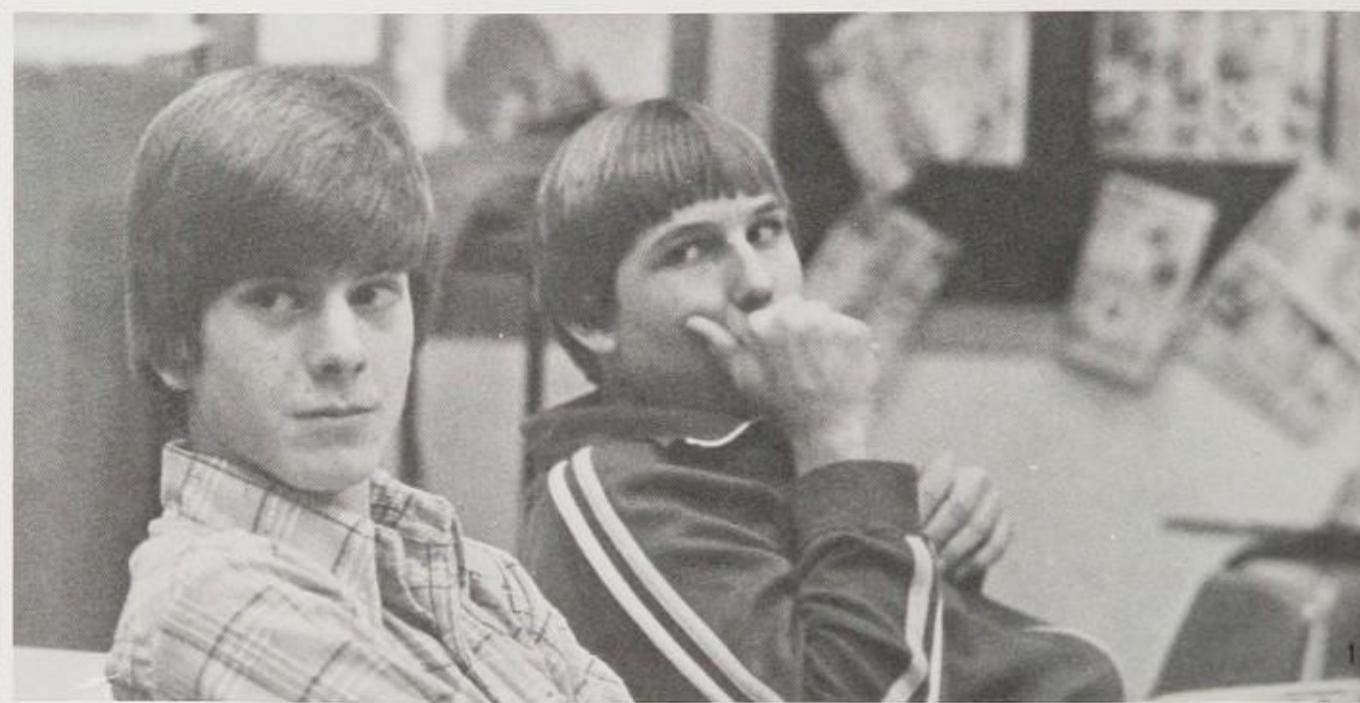

In addition to the usual task of sponsoring the prom, officers hoped to set a tradition by providing T-shirts for the class. Phyllis said, "We were not trying to make a profit on that. We were just trying to promote class spirit."

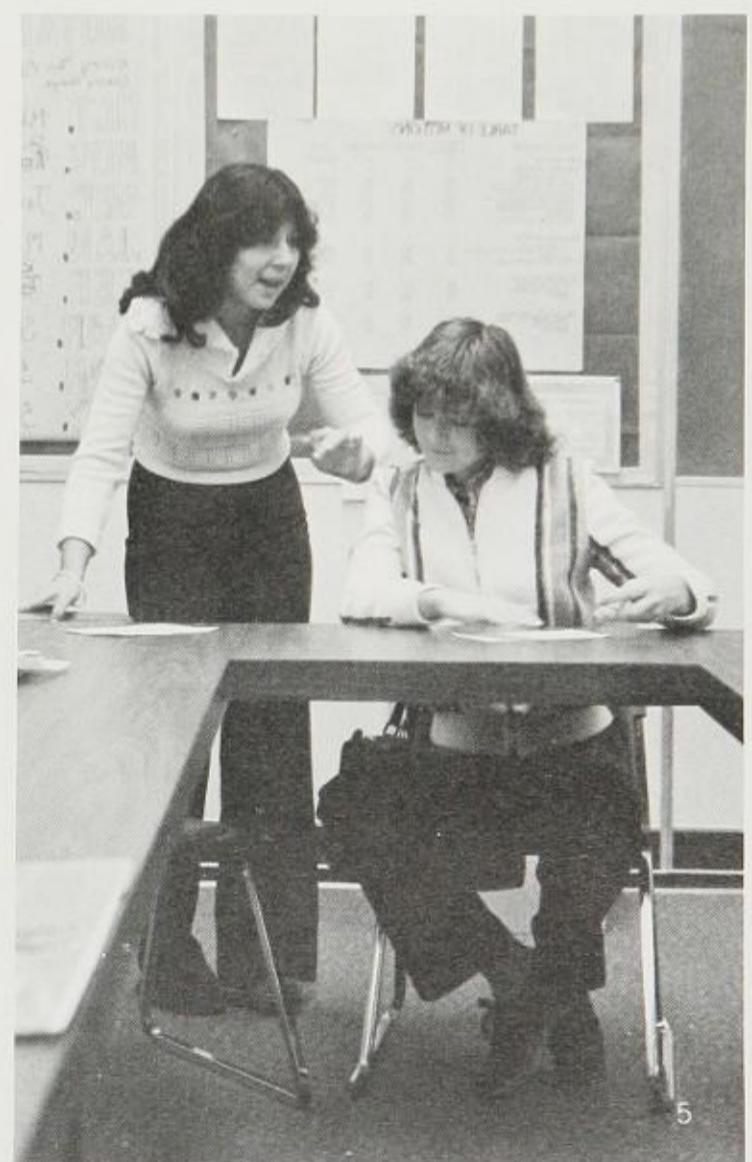

Officers also sold carmel apples at the football games, peddled Christmas wrapping paper, sponsored car-washes and the first dance of the year. Phyllis estimated the juniors made approximately $1,900 on these ventures.

Prom is one of the main responsibilities of the juniors, and officers obtained student input by circulating a survey asking student opinions about the prom. The main issue was the choice between a disc jockey or a band to provide the entertainment. Phyllis said a band was chosen because "a lot of people think a disc jockey is for any regular dance after a football game, and at a special dance they think it's more formal to have a band."

"I feel this year has been great. We have accomplished many of our goals and are looking forward to a productive senior year."

Sophomores plan Coronation

Posters, cotton candy, and Coronation, March 10, were the major activities of the sophomore class.

According to Stan Colgate, class president, a survey was presented in all sophomore SIP classes to decide the main issues of Coronation.

He also said the only project that didn't work out was the homecoming float. Stan said, "The failure of our homecoming float was due to lack of participation by the sophomore class." In spite of participation, however, he said spirit was high.

1. Stan Colgate and David Smithers find their lunch fingerlickin' good.
2. Cindy Cox thinks it's great to be a sophomore.
3. Jeff Coe takes care of the basketball rack at a pep assembly.
4. Leslie Arthur, sophomore, looks down for a moment to think about her day.
5. Kim DeKonty and Lori Pies look over contacts for yearbook.
6. Kim Hubbell is pleased to pose for a picture.

Freshman spirit rated nine

On a scale of one to ten, boys' representative Keith Pazul rates the freshman class spirit a high nine. He said this accounts for overwhelming participation in class activities.

The class sponsored the St. Patrick Dance and a car wash to raise money for its homecoming float. According to Robby Beck class president, the junior class loaned the freshmen $100 to start. Robby said they promptly paid the juniors in full.

Keith also said buttons were sold this year. The buttons read "Class of '82: Gold Crush."

1. Most students wouldn't smile over a broken arm, but freshman Leslie Berkowitz willingly participated in a demonstration of stunts during an assembly. 2. Laura Booth rests after a cheer at a pep assembly. 3. Kerry Fehr makes a speech at the freshman campaign assembly. 4. Freshmen Susan Valencia and Chris Zicafoose discuss matters after their J.V. Volleyball game. 5. Freshman cheerleader Carolyn Iosue gets the crowd involved.

1. Band member Barb Eichburger participates in a pep assembly.
2. Junior Debbie Zamora completes an assignment for yearbook.

New constitution approved

Student Council has in the past had some problems, but according to Student Body president Steve Colgate, the year was different. Council members worked to get students involved in school.

The biggest change made by the council centered around the homecoming activities. After circulating a student-teacher poll the council decided to require float building to take place on school grounds.

Making available a spirit night, which the senior class sponsored, for the floats to be paraded down Lakeshore Drive was an addition the Council made to homecoming. One Student Council member said, "We wanted the community to see what was going on at Marcos."

In charge of all elections was the Board of Supervisors, which is made up of members from Student Council and class councils. The Board was in charge of the special election which presented the new constitution for approval.

The constitution was finally approved in December after going through months of preparation. It passed although it took two elections to do so. The first election was declared invalid due to negligible voter turn-out, which was blamed on the lack of publicity.

"To foster a greater and continued interest in solo, ensemble, band, orchestra and choral performance" is the purpose of Tri-M, an honorary organization for outstanding musicians. It is also "to encourage better and more discriminating habits in listening to and in the performance of musical literature," one member added. Tri-M is an attempt to "Further the reputation of our school as a music center."

According to Mrs. Ruch, Quill and

Entrance to the club requires a student to be a junior or senior with a 3.0 grade average and participate on a publication staff.

Yearbook learns new program

Adjusting to new situations was something the yearbook staff coped with this year. The staff learned the program of a new yearbook company, Newsfoto. The new company offered more freedom to experiment and more guidance from representative Rick Hursh.

Libro de Oro which is to serve as a memory book, met the goals of the staff to cover the year as objectively as possible, according to editor Mark Arndt.

shop in San Angelo, Texas. Jeff won photo of the week award at the camp which included yearbook students from all over the United States.

El Periodico had fewer issues than usual this year because of budget problems. Editor Cindy Coe said, the problems caused the paper to come out approximately every three weeks instead of bi-weekly.

Richell Pavis, copy editor, attended the Arizona Interscholastic Press Association (AIPA) workshop at Northern Arizona University and several members of the staff attended an AIPA convention.

Promoting friendship among the members is the main goal French Club would like to achieve.

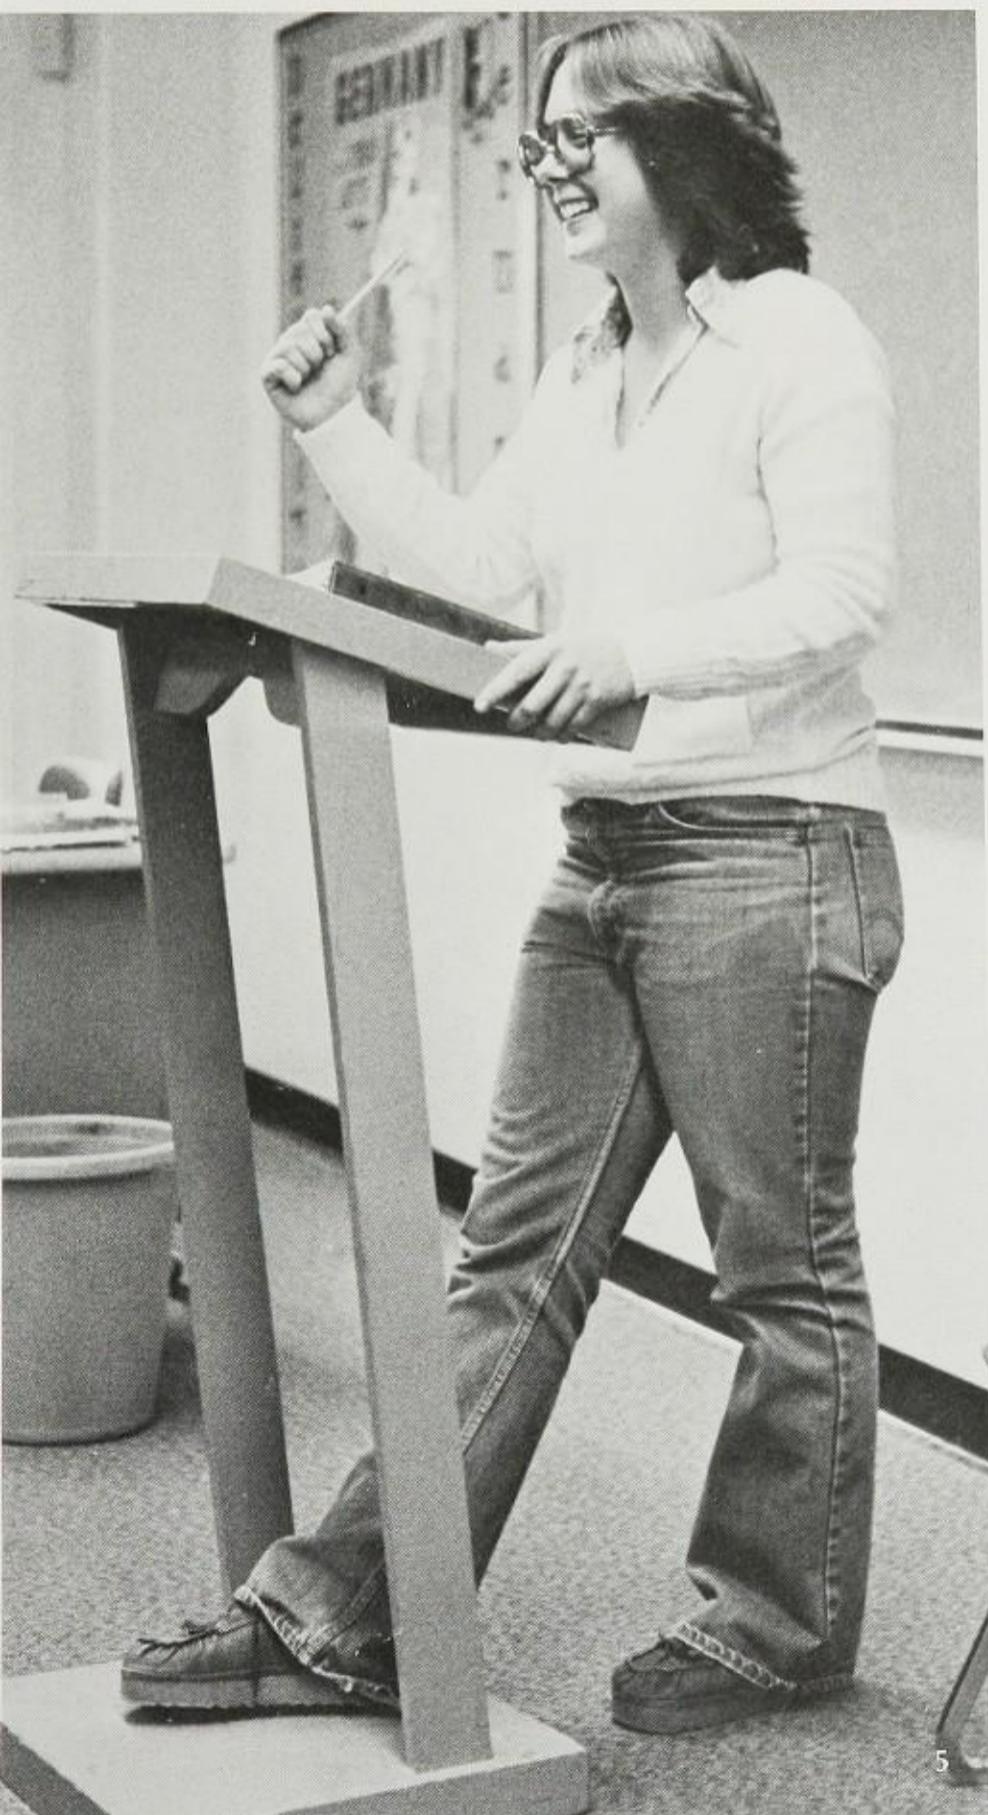

Club members and French classes participated in the University of Quebec's French Language and Culture Immersion during the summer. The Marcos de Niza participants spent the last two days in Montreal.

Because of low financial status and parents' disapproval to send two students to Germany, German Club's main functions were the selling of pretzels and pickles and participation in a shiskabob event.

According to sponsor Mr. Crook, A Gummi Bear sale was planned and members attended cultural events and exchanges with other high schools.

Minority groups promote cultural awareness

Black Student Union (BSU) is similar to a community action organization, according to Allen Kirksey, president. Some students need to be made aware of their culture and that is what BSU attempted to achieve, he said.

A Halloween party for underprivileged children at Okema Day Center was sponsored by members of the club. In addition, officers attended a conference concerning youth. Dr. Joseph Parham from Maricopa County Community College spoke to the BSU students.

Following several years of participating in the club, Mrs. Letha Barrett relinquished her sponsorship to Mrs. Susan Wytko. Allen said Mrs. Wytko "has a lot of good ideas and knows how to deal with youth. That's what makes her so special."

Much like BSU, Mecha Club emphasized participation in school and community activities as the primary goal.

Key club sponsors Christmas Dance

James Brock and Mark Worthington competed as a debate team during the summer at the prestigious Georgetown University Institute.

The Speech Club boasted top ranking in the state throughout the entire year.

Goals of the club include promoting public speaking and overcoming the fear of speaking in public. According to individuals within the club earning a varsity letter was a common goal of club participants.

Planning the Christmas Dance was the big project of the Key Club, although members sold candy apples and turkey pictures.

While the Key Club participated in a lot of fund raisers, its primary purpose is to act as a community and school oriented service club. Club president Bridget Gerson said the club gave money to people in need.

On a more athletic note the Letter Club, according to president Jim Neal, sold concessions at home basketball and football games. Male members dressed as female cheerleaders provided additional comic relief at the annual powder puff football game.

Jim said the objectives of the club included raising money for the benefit of sports programs at Marcos de Niza.

"An opportunity to have fun, learning a variety of art processes and to provide a service to the school" are the functions of Art Club, Sponsor Mary Quinn said.

Students painted the mural for the homecoming dance and made the Padre mascot head. They also silk-screened posters for The Best of Them All and designed T-shirts for clubs.

Chess and Backgammon Club means to "expose the students to competition" in the games and to "have fun." Building a team that will be ready for AIA competition for chess is also desired.

International Club exchanges ideas

VICA Club represents young students "developing their skills and knowledge of the professional world," one member said.

Improving communication with other people and promoting work experience by on-the-job training are also functions of the organization.

Clubs Interested in Automobiles (CIA) is a group of students who desires working with cars. A show car designed and built by members of the club was entered in the Motorama and the Maricopa County Fair.

Purposes of the Science Club are to increase knowledge and experience. Participating in scientific field trips and listening to lectures about astronomy were two projects of the club.

International Club is American and foreign students interested in becoming acquainted with each other. Establishing communications with those abroad is also involved. Because the club is newly formed, expanding membership was being attempted. In addition, car washes, sale of international foods and community activities were proposed functions.

one: Senior Jim Holther shows off mathematical skills by explaining formulas on the board. two: James Wang, Hector Chen and Don Berg learn advanced skills during a meeting of the Science Club. three: Sanjiv Gambhir uses gestures to explain concepts in a Science Club meeting. four: Theresa Roth asks Instructor Malcom Wells about geometry formulas. five: Kent Fultz, Dennis Lawrence and Kim Fettters occasionally relax and play a game of blackjack when not busy with automobiles. six: Matt Hartig gains on-the-job experience as a carpenter through the vocational program. seven: Brian Emdieke learns mechanical skills by repairing defective cars. eight: Many auto mechanics students learn useful skills by tinkering with engines.

Interact donates Thanksgiving dinners

The goal of the Interact Club was to create fellowship, goodwill and worldwide understanding. Interact members provide services to the school and to the community. They help those in need at Marcos de Niza.

Jo Mundy, Interact secretary, said "This year Interact Club has done some very serviceable projects for the community. We are a very small group and this is one of the reasons we have been able to accomplish what we have. Every member has time to participate."

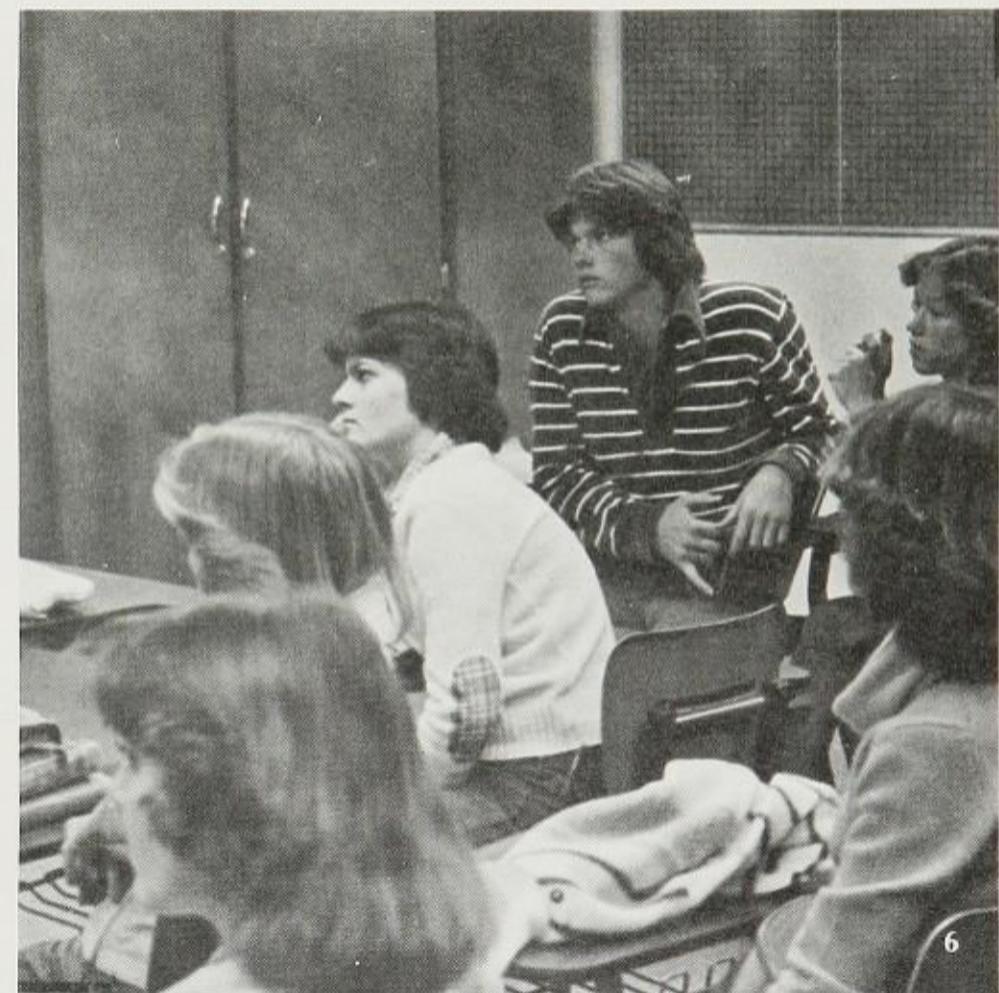

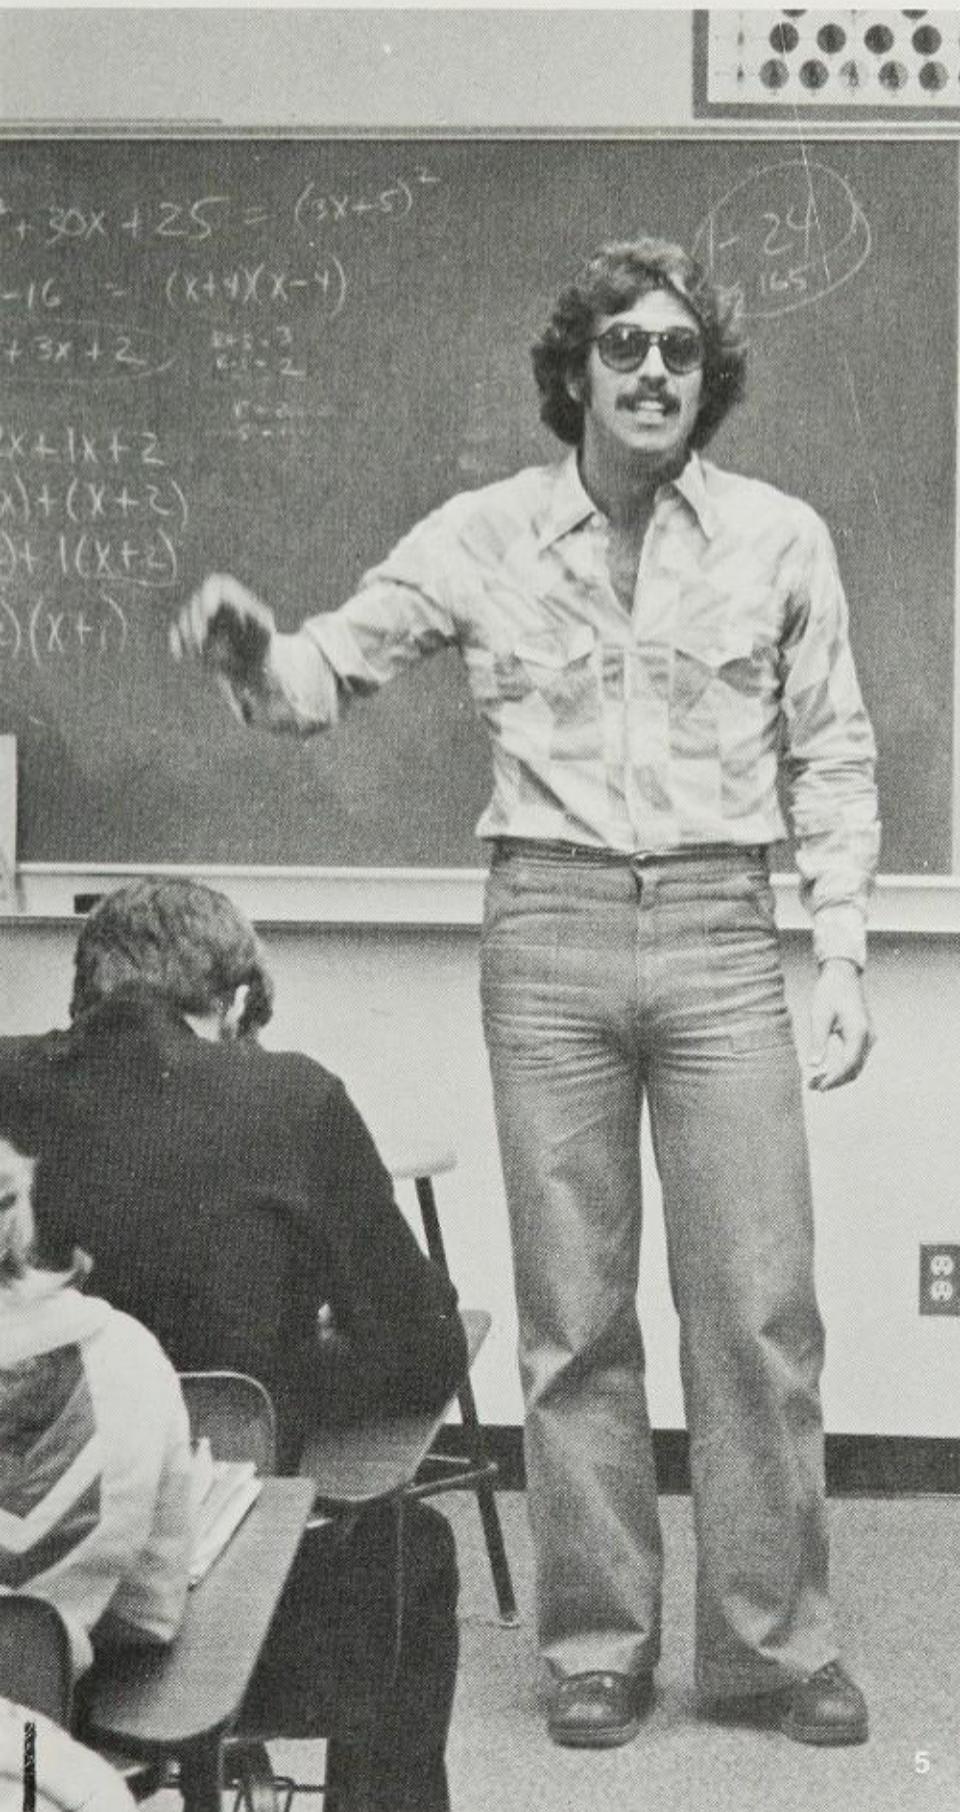

Interact sponsored a dance to raise money for its activities including furnishing Thanksgiving dinners for ten families who have children at MDN. In addition, members participated in the Easter Seals' walk-a-thon, sang Christmas carols at the Old Age Home and gave a Halloween party for the pediatrics ward at Mesa Lutheran Hospital.

Ski Club's main goal was to give members an opportunity for new experience.

According to one member, fund raising reduced the cost of the trips and allowed more members to participate in other outings.

one: Foreign exchange student Jo Mundy expresses her ideas during a meeting of the Interact Club. two: Phylis Rios and Doug Baldwin observe the activities while Alison Oliver looks on in amusement. three: Interact Sponsor Sue Bowers makes a quick exit to her office in the guidance department. four: Wendy Wickers and Jo Mundy look over piles of books at the Interact meeting. five: Ski Club Sponsor Robert Cornell explains the group's projects for the year. six: Not all of the Ski Club's time is spent on the slopes and members listen attentively to vacation plans. seven: Many Ski Club meetings are a blend of business and pleasure.

Athletic support groups aid teams

Taking statistics for the basketball teams is one of the functions of the Rebounders.

They were required to attend every basketball game except Casa Grande and Kofa due to lack of transportation.

According to member Cathy Wilde there are no specific goals for the club.

Mat Rascals assisted in scoring and announcing at the wrestling matches which helped promote school spirit.

To raise money, they organized a volleyball-a-thon. Selling programs at football games also contributed to the fund.

One: Between matches Eileen Kilkenny, Brenda Rehnke and Jenni Olson talk shop. Two: Debbie

Henderson and Eileen Kilkenny lead cheers during a match. Three: At a pep assembly Jenni Olson and Eileen Kilkenny root for the wrestling team. Four: Sophomore Brenda Rehnke expresses herself with body language. Five: Rebounders Cathy Wilde, Lori Pies and Sharon Spickerman view the start of the second half against Saguaro. Six: Mrs. McKeown holds her son, Phil, as she takes a shot chart. Seven: A rebounder observes the game against the Buffaloes.

Band camp part of activities

Aside from the usual half time shows and pep rallies the Padre Band included many activities in its schedule.

The year started with band camp, which took place the week prior to school. The camp was at the Pinal County 4-H camp ground, which is located between Flagstaff and Williams. According to band director Mr. Bill Richardson, the camp was designed to create a family relationship among members of the band. This was to be achieved by having members eat, sleep and play together for a week in very primitive surroundings.

While at camp, band members practised marching in a nearby motel parking lot. The rest of the practicing was done under a ramada inside the camp grounds.

Although the band fell short of its hopes for a superior grade at the ASU Band Day Competition, the group made up the disappointment at the Cortez Invitational where it dazzled the audience with its variety of marching steps.

During the concert season, the band prepared for its spring tour. The musicians went to California for the Music Educators National Convention. According to Mr. Richardson, being asked to perform at the convention is quite an honor.

one: Trombone players from the Padre Band and McClintock Band practice for the dual halftime show. two: Band Director Bill Richardson leads the combined band show. three: Standing in the middle of the band, Pat O'Brien plays his solo. four: Junior Steve Arndt, trumpet player, sits in the stands and watches the game. five: Trombone players Frank Felix and Steve Boe play during pep assembly. six: Santos Nieto and trumpet soloist Mary Price play during the McClintock football game. seven: Helping the Padre Band out, a member of the Arizona State University marching band sits in the stands.

Jazz wins 'most outstanding' award

Guitar ensemble, under the direction of Mr. Robert Diaz, performed at several concerts and raised money by selling concessions at Arizona State University and cleaning the stadium.

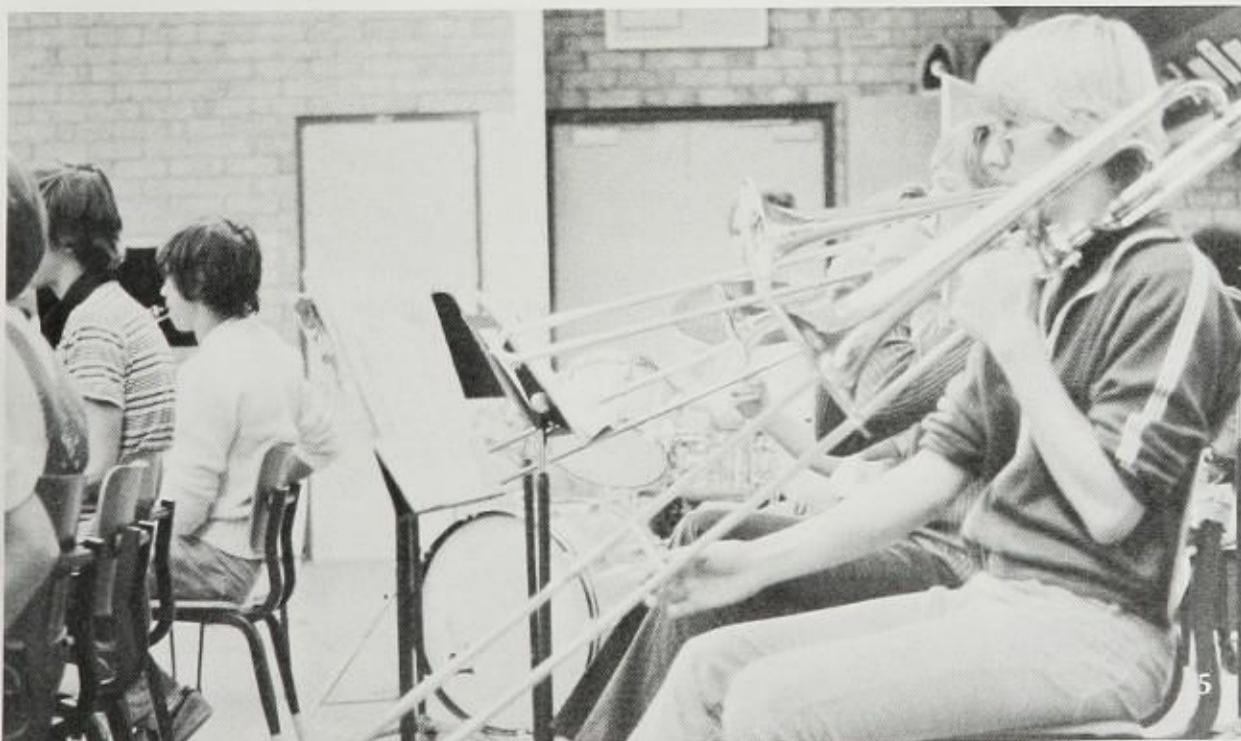

Promoting guitar was the organization's major goal. Other goals included working with others and serving the community. Mr. Diaz said the group did its best to represent the school musically.

Another musical group, the jazz ensemble, played at the state jazz festival during December and won the award for the most outstanding group. The jazz group also attended a festival in Flagstaff.

According to Mr. Bill Richardson, director, the group performed all styles of jazz. Members of the jazz ensemble learned how to interpret different music along with trying the jazz art of improvising.

During the fall, the jazz group attended a concert at Central Arizona College, which featured Woody Herman and his orchestra.

one: Members of the guitar ensemble back up Mexican-American musicians during an outdoor presentation. two: Ramon Flores prepares for a concert. three: Demonstrations are part of Mr. Robert Diaz's teaching. four: Larry Boltz keeps the beat during a Jazz Ensemble practice session. five: Jazz Ensemble trumpet section practices. six: Dave Johnson and the trombone section play during jazz practice.

Choir sings in Christmas assembly

A cappella and Madrigal Choirs participated in many concerts throughout the year. Concerts were plentiful around Christmas when shopping center appearances were common.

Both choirs sang in the student Christmas assembly presented by the performing arts department. According to Mr. Jake Rittenhouse, choir director, the assembly was done to let the student body know what was going on in the performing arts department.

Mr. Rittenhouse, who directs both choirs, took the groups to the Music Educators National Convention in Anaheim, Calif. The groups, while in California, played several engagements in addition to appearances at the convention.

one: Nanci Chalquest and Scott Graham sing during Madrigal Choir practice. two: Concentrating, Kerry Hayden practices reading music during a rehearsal. three: Choir Director Jake Rittenhouse discusses musical score with a student. four: "Choir adds life. . ." is part of choir room decor. Tom Booth and Jackie Lowman, seniors, rest for a moment. five: Singing at a mall during the Christmas season, members of the Madrigal Choir harmonize. six: Jennifer Allred, accompanist for both choirs, waits patiently for her turn. seven: Dr. McKeown, professor at Arizona State University talks with Melany Hobbs and Jim Monty after his presentation. eight: Kerry Hayden, Kip Huff, Kelly Sneed and Stephanie Hall sing in a quartet. nine: Acting as a good example for his students, Director Jake Rittenhouse sings out.

HANDBELL CHOIR: Mr. Rittenhouse, director. Marianne Beitz, Jean Falletich, Laura Flores, Brenda Hazzard, Denis LaForce, Sally Lowman, Deirdre Schultz, Gayle Van Sant, Nancy Winters, David Hood.

Choirs perform all year round

"Advanced Girls' and Mixed Chorus are super to work with and have exhibited a lot of enthusiasm for singing," said Director Randy Weece.

Advanced Girls' Chorus participated in caroling for Zota Club (professional Women's Club) and seasonal concerts. Due to the flu epidemic the Christmas concert was cancelled.

Mixed Chorus performed at a fall and spring concert; both Choirs took part in concerts for local elementary and junior high schools.

"Handbell is to improve the musicianship of the students in this class through handbell playing," according to Mr. Rittenhouse. "It also develops handbell skills and techniques by playing music written for the bells."

To encourage and support musical activities at school and in the community is the goal that the orchestra department would like to achieve, according to Mr. Barry Olson, director.

Some students are members of the Phoenix Symphony Orchestra Association. The group performs in school concerts and participates in fund raising events.

one: Sally Lowman applies her general maintenance skills to a handbell. two: Handbells performing during open house orientation meeting. three: Members of mixed chorus practice. four: Preparing for the Christmas concert students in the advanced girls' choir participate in rehearsal. five: Choir director Randy Weece points as part of his teaching technique. six: Advanced Girls' choir practices. seven: Handbell ringer Dennis LaForce rings his bell at the appropriate time during practice.

"Nothing could be finer than to be a 79'er," was one of the catchy phrases of the senior class. Slogans were not the only activity of the seniors as officers planned numerous functions.

Aside from winning the float contest for the second consecutive year, the class of '79 dropped fliers from an airplane declaring Padre dominance and organized spirit night.

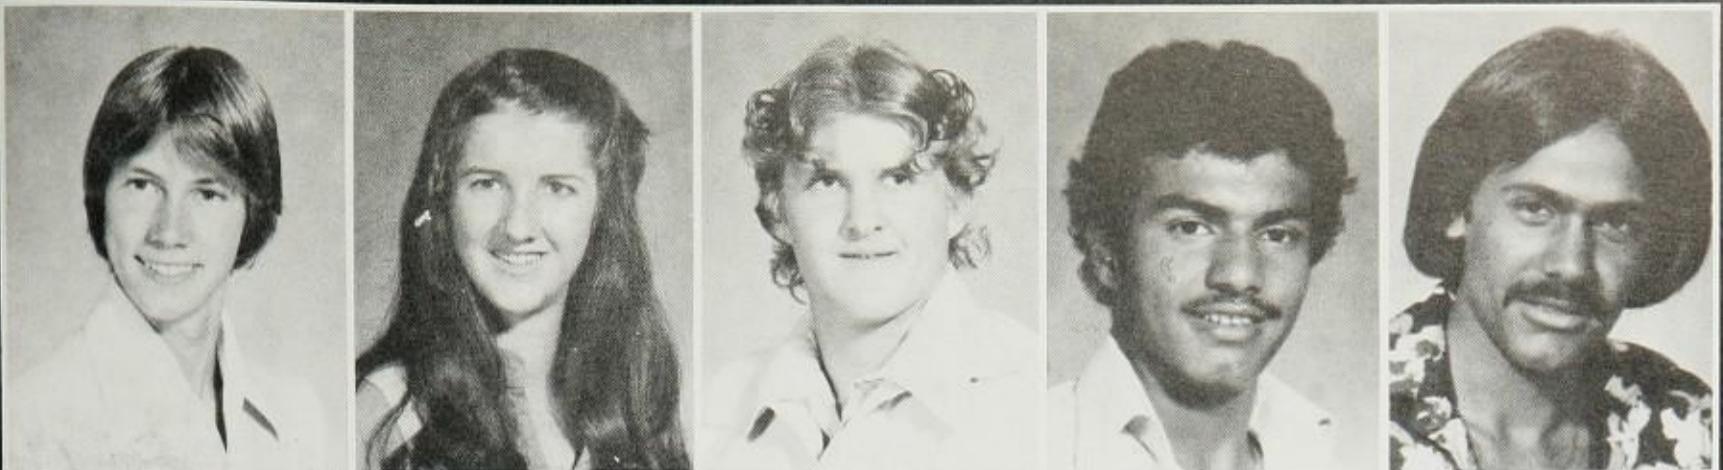

1. Unfortunately the flier, one of 4,000 dropped on McClintock, had little effect on the outcome of the annual city rivalry.

2. Homecoming queen Kimm Fagan and J. G. Koehnemann's stand-in, Andy Hayes, bask in coronation glory.

Senior Kimm Fagan walked away from the year with several honors. Kimm was elected homecoming queen and was chosen as the 1978-79 Tempe Junior Miss.

"I never won anything before, not even a cakewalk at a carnival," Kimm said. Both honors came as a complete surprise. Kimm said, "I was in no way prepared to win."

The Junior Miss Pageant featured 22 girls from the Tempe area. Kimm said she thought she had lost the competition when she stepped on a riser full of girls and it fell over dumping every one.

Kimm was involved in many activities in high school with emphasis in choir.

Reigning as El Periodico editor-in-chief for the past two years, Cindy Coe defined her encounters with the paper as extremely hectic, however, at the same moment, very rewarding.

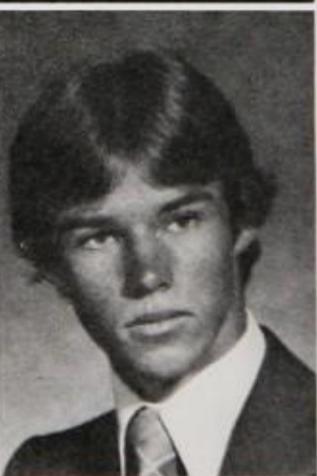

In addition, Cindy claimed she has grown more since her participation with El Periodico.

Although Mark Arndt had not planned to emphasize journalism during his high school career, he became an authority for "Libro de Oro" due to his unexpected enthusiasm for the field while taking writing classes. He claimed the main reason for his interest, was due to sponsor Judy Ruch's dedication and concern for her students.

Throwing a ball through a hoop may seem uncomplicated at first to an uneducated observer, but junior Brock Butson might disagree. Basketball is the main interest of the varsity athlete, but Brock has also set other goals for his senior year.

Brock said, "I'd like to get a 4.0 grade average by my senior year, and I'd like to get a scholarship for sports or scholastic achievement."

Like many, Brock found the transition from underclassman to upperclassman a disappointment. "There's not much difference, but it's good because others look up to you and talk to you about things."

Winning the "Award of Excellence" at cheer camp is only one of the experiences that has highlighted junior Jama Honaker's years of high school. DECA, track, powderpuff football and Letter Club are a few others.

Jama hopes to achieve a 4.0 grade point average next year and "get along with all the people who are involved with me." In the meantime, she enjoys being an upper classman because she loves to "tease freshmen."

Though Jama likes MdN, she would change "the relations between clubs on campus and the administration." She said, "We really have the pride back that we lost last year in this year's spirit."

"I like to hear bones crunching and screams of pain," said sophomore griddler Brent Rumph. Brent favors the football program because, "the coaches don't just teach you to win, they teach you to lose, too. Coaches stress respect for the other team, other players and for yourself."

In his spare time, Brent likes to draw, play racquetball, swim, play table tennis and "hustle pool." While in school, he gets good grades, makes people laugh and on a more serious note, plans to go to college and major in architecture.

If Brent had three wishes, he would want to be valedictorian of his class, have a Mazzarati and get three more wishes.

Obtaining a good education is one of the goals of sophomore Sue Koehnemann. Sue also plans to stay active by playing racquetball, powderpuff football, and, of course, partying.

"The spirit at MdN keeps getting better and better," the cheerleader stated. "People are getting involved in the clubs and sports and they are cheering at the assemblies instead of just sitting there."

Sue also recognized the need for more control regarding violence. "The discipline is pretty good, but the campus cops should work on prevention instead of control."

The best way to improve Marcos de Niza, according to freshman class president Robby Beck is for the lower classmen to have more spirit and for the upperclassmen to have more respect for the freshmen.

Robby's goal is to be class president throughout his high school years. After high school Robby plans to go to college and major in a medical profession.

Robby said he expects to lead the class of '82 with the experience he picked up in junior high and his first year of high school.

He is also interested in football, basketball and baseball.

Becoming a surgeon is a goal freshman vice-president Valerie Hayslett would like to achieve. Because she cannot bear to see anyone suffer, Valerie wishes to relieve pain.

However, if she decides not to enter the medical profession, the field of journalism will be taken under consideration. If all else fails, acting would be satisfying since Valerie has taken drama lessons.

Valerie said she wanted to become vice-president because she wanted to be involved with the freshmen class and thought they're turning out pretty well.

Varsity football finished the 1978-79 season with a 4-6 record. Coach Ron Cosner said the team didn't perform as well as he expected but did as well as they could.

"We broke down in some areas, and the other team took advantage of it," Coach Cosner said.

He said some of the season's highlights were scoring 28 points in the second half of the Chapparal game, beating East High and shutting out the Chandler Wolves.

This year, three-year letterman Jimmy Neal received the Most Valuable Player Award, Kevin Huguez was given the Joe Sella Award and John Allred was cited as being most improved.

Coach Cosner said next year's team would be smaller, perhaps smallest in the history of Marcos de Niza. He said in order for the team to improve its record it would have to cut down on the amount of mental mistakes it makes.

4. The two lines meet as the defense prepares to battle an offensive attack.
5. Dave Price and Scott Miller come off the field after a successful drive.

"We had too many early ball games where we made mistakes which gave the other team points," Coach Bob Urchike of the JV football team said. The team finished its season with a 4-6 record beating Chandler, Scottsdale, Chapparal and Coronado. Coach Urchike said the team's mistakes were both physical and mental.

Coach Urchike said once the team fumbled eight times in one game, one of which was run back for a touchdown. In the same game the Padres threw three interceptions, one of which was run back to the 5-yard line and eventually scored upon.

"Mountain View is the only team that really beat us," Coach Urchike said. Against McClintock the team fumbled twice deep in their own territory to set up touchdowns. Against East High Marcos de Niza had three consecutive punts blocked.

Coach Urchike singled out Rick Tursini, Mike Arroyo, Craig Fitzgerald and Kent Meeks as outstanding players. Coach Urchike said, "The future looks good."

Frosh "A" football team finished its 78-79 season with a 6-1-1 record, losing only to McClintock and tying with Casa Grande. Coach Bob Cornell said, "The kids were just super. We had good athletes and we were really proud of them."

Coach Cornell cited Loren Whipple, Charles Kinnaman and Don Dunnigan as doing an outstanding job offensively. During the season Whipple ran for six touchdowns in one game while he only handled the ball seven times.

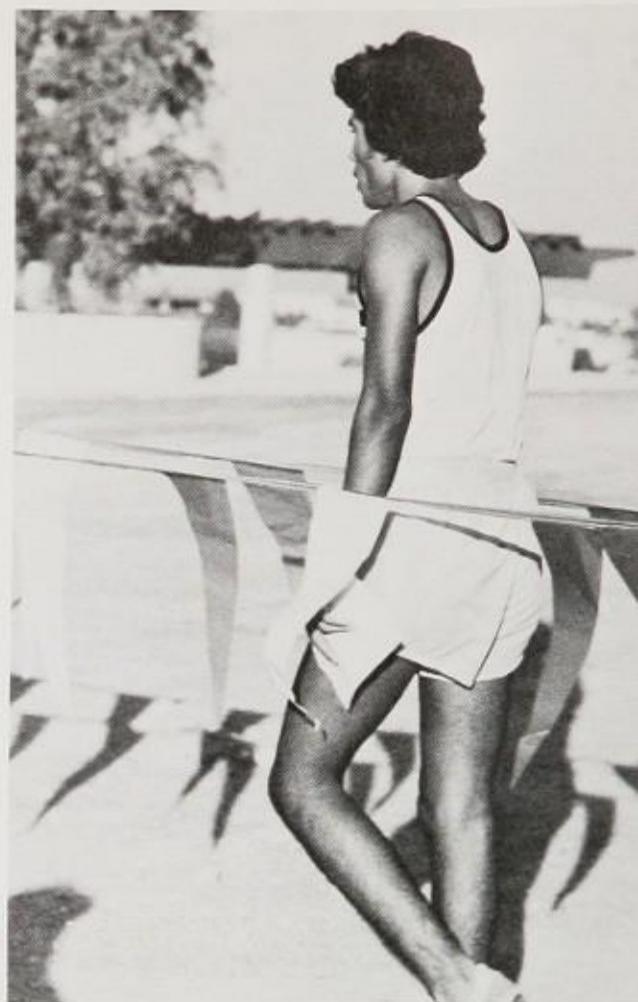

Defensively, Coach Cornell cited Richard Vizzera, Alex Gomez, Darryl Turner and Sam Zamora as doing an outstanding job. It was Sam Zamora who kicked a 40-yard field goal to capture the school record.

To top off a very good season the defensive backfield intercepted more passes than the opposition caught all year.

Coach Dennis Powell attributes the Frosh "B" football team's 2-6-1 record to "our own mistakes." The team managed to defeat Rhodes and Fremont while tying with Chapparel. "Against Tempe and McClintock we played good ball games but made some mistakes and lost."

During the McClintock game the gridders were ahead with two minutes in the game left. The Chargers managed to complete a long pass and steal victory from the Padres.

It was against Rhodes that the Padres scored to win on a 92-yard pass with just two seconds left in the game.

Harriers capture city title

The top five runners on the cross country team ran a total of 1360 miles a piece from the beginning of the summer to the end of the season. The team ended its highly successful season with an outstanding 14-1 record.

The team's only loss was to the Coronado Dons in the divisional meet. The meet all came down to just one point which according to Coach Ron Houser is really rare.

The team ended first in the city, second in the division and fourth in the state. The team's varsity runners were Rick Guzman, Dane Thorliefson, Bob Guzman, Tony Osuna, Mike Guzman and Ron Riggins. Coach Houser said all the varsity did an outstanding job.

1. Mike Guzman walks through the flag lane at the end of a successful race.
2. Bob Guzman runs at Kiwanis Park during the "AAA" Cross country Championship.
3. Top row l-r: Coach Ron Houser, Dane Thorliefson, Roman Kypchek, Ron Riggins, Tony Osuna, Rick Guzman, Bob Guzman, Basilio Martinez, Mike Guzman. Bottom row—El Wolf, Chris Klien, Jerry Brown, Kevin Lathrop, Bill Pipes, Bruce Parker.
4. Bob Guzman sprints towards the finish line at the end of the divisional tournament.

Future doubtful for cross-country

Coach Ron Houser said, "The program is going down the tubes." He said the team has had a poor freshman turnout for three years in a row. Only Rick Guzman and Dane Thorliefson will return next year with the rest of the team graduating. However, Coach Houser said all that is needed is to have a couple more runners and Marcos de Niza would have a good team. "It's discouraging to put that much time into cross country and not have that many people come out.

"If you can get four or five guys who are willing to do the work and stay with you from the time they are freshmen, you'll have a good team."

5. Dana Thorliefson and Rick Guzman stride towards the finish line in an attempt to capture victory at the Divisional Tournament.

Varsity goes to State

"When Colgate came back I knew the potential was there," Coach Phil McKeown said about the varsity basketball team's highly successful 20-6 season, the most successful season in Padre basketball history. The Padres received the ranking of first in league, second in division and sixth in the State according to the last coaches' poll.

Coach McKeown singled out Steve Colgate, Anthony McKinney, Chris McKinney and Mark Skelly as outstanding athletes. Also cited for doing a good job coming off the bench was John Alred, Brock Butson, Keith Turner and Steve Ockerman.

Among other things Coach McKeown said, "I really liked the crowds. They made a lot of noise like I like them to."

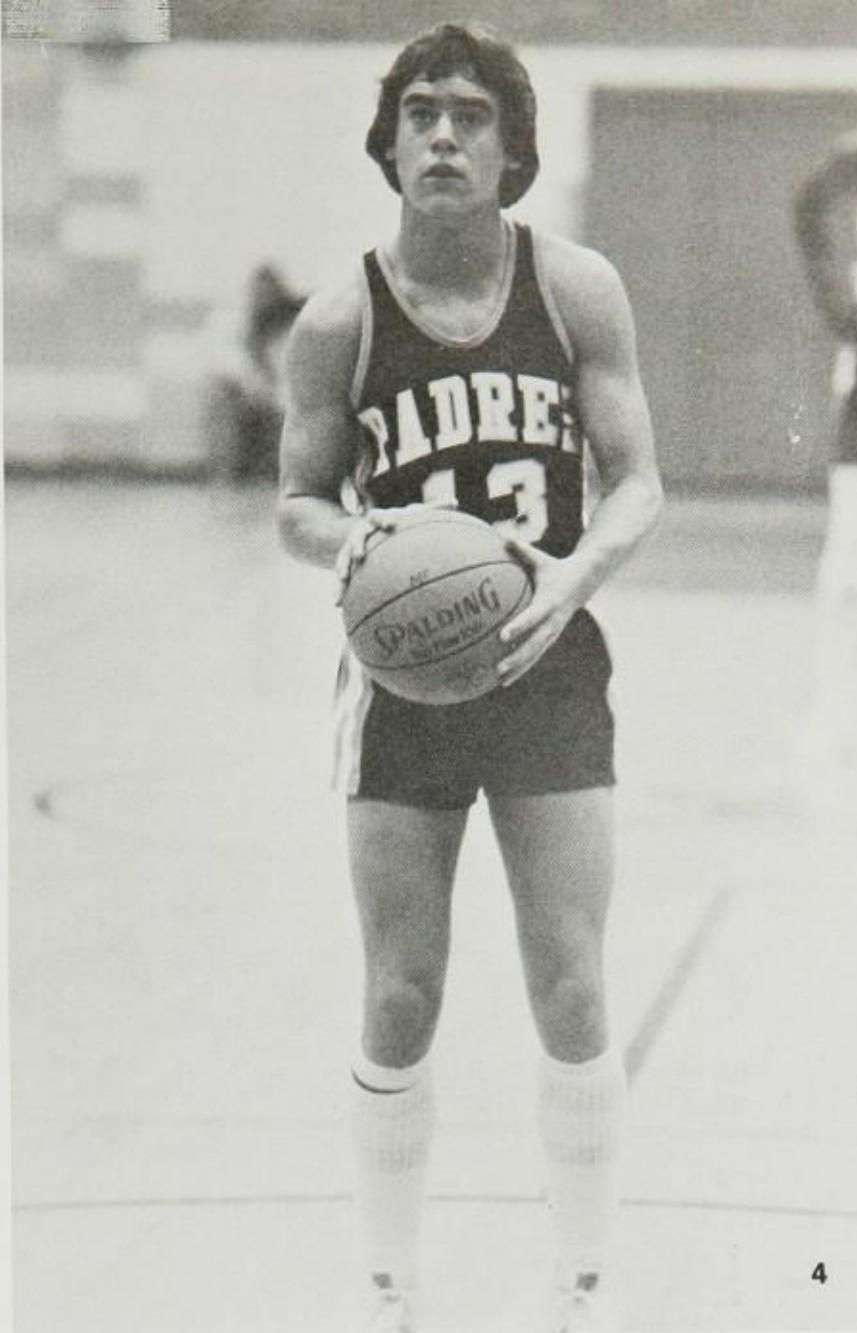

Going into the play-offs the Padres had a 11-3 league record. The team had a regular season record of 18-6.

Next year with A. McKinney and Colgate graduating this year, Coach McKeown said even though this year will be hard to duplicate, next year still looks hopeful. Coach McKeown said that coming up for the JV will be Kevin Warren, Chris Parham and Phil McKinney. According to Coach McKeown Phil could possibly be the best of the three McKinney brothers.

6. Steve Colgate concentrates briefly before attempting a free-throw.

'Kids unbelievable'

"The kids did an unbelievable job toward the end of the year," said Coach John Lassen of the JV basketball team. The team finished its season with a 12-7 record and was able to come back from an early 1-4 record at the beginning of the season.

Coach Lassen cited Kevin Warren, Chris Parham, Stan Colgate and Phil McKinney as outstanding players. Warren average 18.5 points per game, Parham averaged 12.5 and McKinney led the team in rebounds with 12.5 per game.

Although the freshman gold basketball team lost 12 players during the season for different reasons, Coach Manuel Lira thought the team did well with a record of 7-11.

Mr. Lira complimented the boys for not giving up and having very good attitudes.

Coach Lira has coached basketball for ten years. He is hoping more freshmen come out for basketball next year.

"The record is not indicative of their talent or their overall desire," Coach Bob Yniguez said in regard to the teams 7-11 record. "They're not quitters and they're all winners to me."

The team suffered the loss of two of its starting players in the middle of the season. Between the two players lost Coach Yniguez estimated the team lost about 27 points per game.

The highpoint of the season was the team's overtime victory against McClintock in which Coach Yniguez cited Robby Peterson and Pat Winsryg as decisive factors in that victory.

Wrestlers excel

"Ten of the top 20 teams in the state are in the Central Division," stated varsity wrestling coach Jim Weed. "That tells you what kind of competition we have."

Coach Weed replaced Coach Dennis Powell at the head coaching job when he was offered a coaching job at Mesa Community College. "I didn't really do that much," added Coach Weed. "All of the wrestlers were already outstanding. We'll see how good of a coach I am when the freshmen are wrestling on varsity."

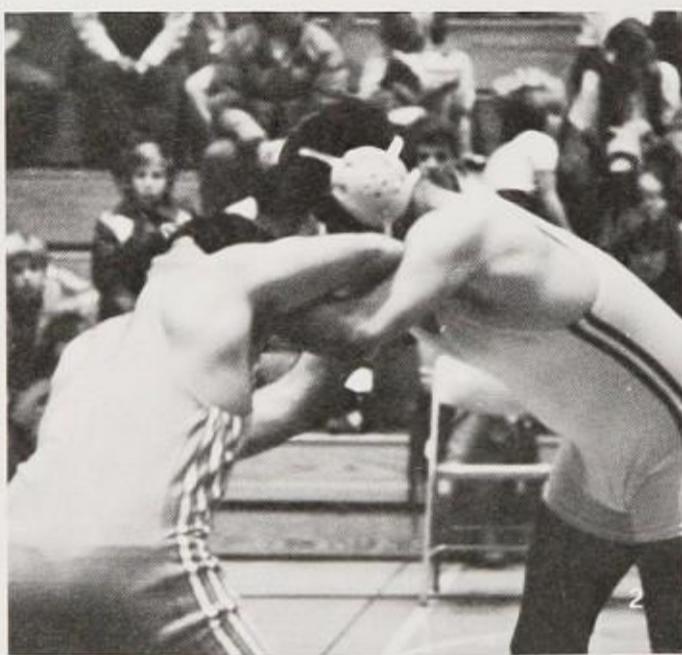

At the divisional playoffs, the Padres came in tenth place. Coach Weed attributed the poor finish to the luck of the draw. "A few of our good wrestlers had to wrestle against top seeded wrestlers in the tournament," Coach Weed said.

New wrestlers show promise

Coach Weed feels the wrestling program will improve in a few years. "Marcos didn't have a junior high school with a good wrestling program in their district so Tempe and McClintock got all of the good freshman players," Coach Weed said. "But we're going to start a wrestling program over at Fees Junior High and our frosh program should be excellent in about three years."

Golfers excel: 16-4

The girls' golf team finished its 78-79 season with an outstanding 16-4 record. The team finished third in division and fifth in state. In the state tournament medalist Pam Sherman finished fifth in the state. Pam has been the team medalist for three years in a row.

Coach John Lassen reported the team's four losses were to McClintock (twice), who happened to finish first in the state, Kofa and Mt. View. Coach Lassen said the team for some reason had a pretty good rivalry between Mt. View. The team lost to them in regular season but defeated the Toros in the division and state tournaments.

Susan Neal was awarded the Joe Sellah Award while Elaine Wozniak was cited as most improved. Elaine got one of the best scores to make her one of the top frosh in the division.

1. Elaine Wozniak looks weary after a long practice.
2. Top row l-r: Betsy Cook, Elaine Wozniak, Kathy Cook, Leslie Aurther, Darlene Couture, Coach John Lassen. Bottom row—Susan Neal, Pam Sherman, Laura Till.

4. Leslie Aurther rests on the grass after the team compiled one of its 16 victories.
5. Darlene Couture perfects her drive at one of the team's practices at Tempe Municipal Golf Course.

Squad needs more 'Charlies'

"Illness and inexperience were two of our big problems," said Coach Green in reaction to the badminton team's 0-10 season. Other problems were "a lack of experience and a high drop-out rate."

One of the seasons highlights was what Mrs. Green called the "challenge of the sexes." Mrs. Green explained that any male student or faculty member could challenge girls from the badminton team. Mrs. Green reported these were the team's only victories during the season. "The girls really creamed them. It was really fun and I want to do that again next year."

Mrs. Green singled out Diane "Charlie" Iwer as an outstanding player. Diane has played on the team all four years of her high school career. She received the award for most dedicated player and the Joe Sella Award. Mrs. Green said the team is looking for more girls with this type of dedication and leadership ability.

Even though she was discouraged because of the team's poor record, Mrs. Green said, "It's always fun to coach those who really care—even if their numbers are limited.

"I'm going to be encouraging anyone and everyone to come out for badminton because we were down to seven girls for our final match and we usually try to play at least twelve. We have lots of room for newcomers."

Mrs. Green said next year "will be just like starting all over."

1. Varsity l-r: Denise Marlor, Michele Harris, Pauline Gonzales, Coach Janet Green, Theresa Batopis, Diane Iwer, Catalina Reyes.
2. Tracy Stith and Susan Felix stretch to return a drop shot as they played doubles.

David,

I've really enjoyed the time we spent with you in class this year.
I'm glad I had the chance to meet you. I don't know you that well but you seem to be a very intelligent young man. Keep up the good work, I hope you get what you want out of life, good luck in the future, have a nice summer, for Robin.

Volleyball lacks experience

5

"There were a lot of first timers and a lot of girls that had only played backyard volleyball," Coach Fred Browning said about the varsity squad's 0-12 record. Coach Browning also said the team's record was due to "a lack of preparation and the need of being able to do something in the summer."

Coach Browning singled out Ruth Kieser as the Most Valuable Player and awarded Kim Grubb the Joe Sellah Award.

"The team needed to handle the ball more before the season," Coach Browning said. He said all the winning teams have some form of summer clinic in which the team gain experience. This year there will be a summer clinic for volleyball which will be run by the Parks and Recreation Department.

The JV squad finished its season with a 2-9 record. Coach Linda Work singled out Annette DeLacruz and Pam Kingston as outstanding players.

Mr. Browning said, "As far as the team's record showed the team never gave up. The last game was played with just as much energy as the first."

4. On the board, Kris Kingsley steadies herself in preparation for a dive.
5. Kim Hubbell, Kris Kingsley and Kelly Barkley look on as their teammates attempt to gain victory.

Girls' swimming and diving team finished its 1978 season with a record of 1-6, coming out victorious only over Gilbert by a 76-84 margin.

Coach Eldon Smith said throughout the season, "the girls had a good attitude and showed lots of enthusiasm."

Carrie Brody was awarded the Joe Sella Award; Julie Messursi was given Most Valuable Player and Cynthia Duff was cited as most improved.

Coach Smith said the team is in the process of rebuilding. "I was really pleased with the team itself. I think they have a lot of potential, enthusiasm and a good attitude."

"In a sport like tennis where the players are playing against one another constantly, it's hard to develop a team spirit," Coach Bob Deacon of the boys' varsity and JV tennis teams said. "The spirit is basically okay."

Coach Deacon cited Charlie North, Mike Henneberry and Greg Butler as outstanding players. According to Coach Deacon, North and Henneberry had a good chance at taking the State doubles championship.

The team had a good turnout this year with around 20 people coming out on the first day of practice. Coach Deacon said the team experienced a good season.

"I'm planning on being back and trying to develop some consistency in the coaching," Coach Deacon said. "I've really enjoyed it and it's been a good experience for me."

Women netters meditate

"It's the look toward the future that looks good," Coach Judy Hoke of the girls' varsity and JV tennis team said. "This is the best potential team I've ever had."

The team's varsity squad consisted of two seniors, two juniors and two freshmen. According to Miss Hoke the team is "loaded" with juniors. Miss Hoke cited Julie Root, Dori Naverette and Erin McPheters as outstanding players. Root has been able to hold the number one position on the team for three and one half years. "She's an outstanding athlete," Miss Hoke said.

This year Miss Hoke thought the netters would surprise some teams.

The team has been going into the locker room after practice, turning out the lights and meditating for five minutes. Miss Hoke believed this helped the team with their concentration.

"The girls are very objective about each other's abilities."

The girls' frosh tennis team finished its season with a 6-7 record. Even though the team didn't finish the best it ever had, according to Miss Judy Hoke, "It was the best freshman team I've ever had."

Among the most memorable moments for the team was the singing that took place on the van as they traveled to and from away matches. According to Miss Hoke the team's "theme song" was the theme from the movie "Grease."

Laurie Davis and Allison Jacobs were cited as outstanding players.

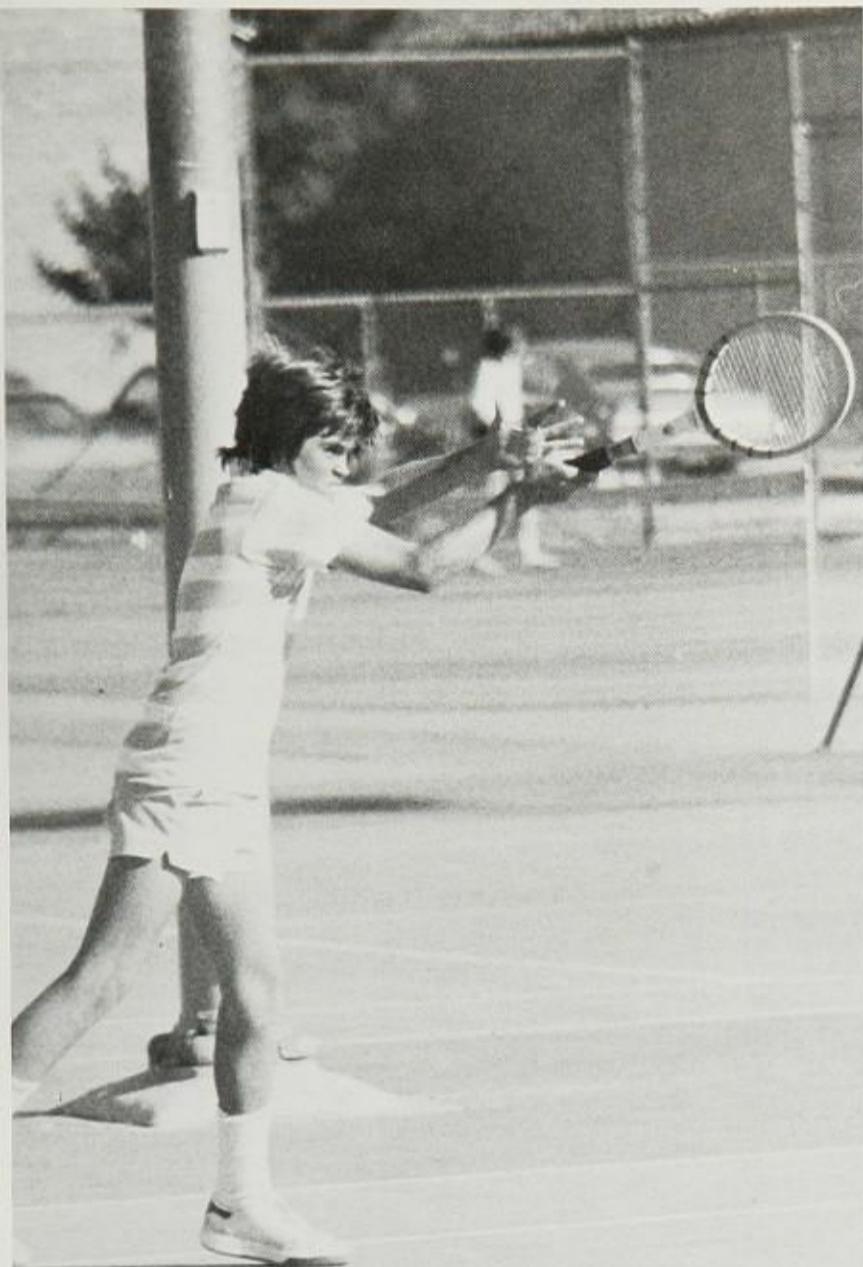

"We started out with three players and had to scrounge up the rest" Coach Bob Deacon of the boys' frosh tennis team said. The team ended its 78-79 season with seven players. According to Coach Deacon, the reason for the Padres' early deficit was the fact there were too many other fall sports for tennis to compete with.

The netters finished their season with a 9-4 record. "I thought they did really well," Coach Deacon said. He cited Mike Henneberry and Tim Curella as outstanding players. Henneberry was able to go undefeated and Curella was most improved.

Coach Deacon said, "I hope next year we have more players than seven so we could have some more depth to the team."

2. Shawn Livingston fouls a ball away as she attempts to bat.

3. Gigi Corbett gets ready to receive a pitch.

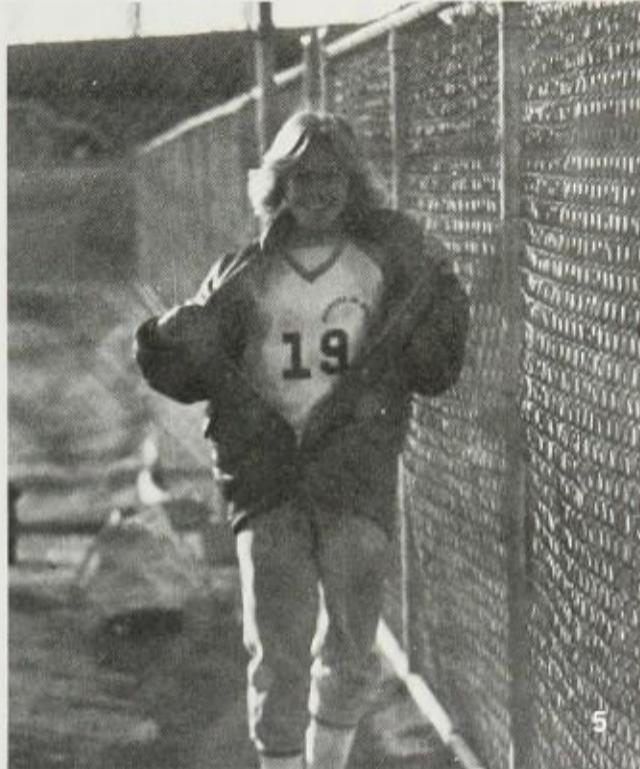

4. Lisa Yates takes a breather after a hard inning.

5. Sandy Hoffman sheds her jacket in preparation to bat.

Girls show improvement

"If the outcome of the first game had been different, it would have given the girls more confidence in themselves," Coach Jerri Sheer said in regard to the varsity softball team's 3-11 record. In the first game of the season the girls received a 16-2 beating from Tempe High.

Coach Sheer cited Annette DeLaCruz, Sonya Wolfe and Lisa Yates as outstanding players. Coach Sheer said, "I saw improvement all year long."

"I'm losing six seniors but I've got some JV kids that should help me out," Coach Sheer said. "All of the team had a fantastic attitude. They're super, super neat kids."

The JV softball team finished its season with a winning 7-6 record. Coach James Coughenour said, "I was pleased that we had a winning season and thought we used our resources really well."

According to Mr. Coughenour all of the team's wins were within a one or two point margin and all of the team's losses were by a fairly large point spread, which shows "the mark of a good team. It shows our team can handle the pressure when it counts. I know if we played well we'd have a good chance for a winning season."

4. The varsity cheerleaders perform a skit during a pep assembly.
5. Frosh squad: Top to bottom—Laura Booth, Carolyn Iosue, Susan Thompson, Jenny Jones, Terri Howard.

208—Cheer

"It has its good sides and it has its bad," JV cheerleader Susan Crawley said about being a Marcos de Niza cheerleader.

Crawley said cheerleaders are not only for promoting school spirit but they also provide the various players with benefits that do them a lot of good. She also said as the year progresses the cheerleaders become more and more like sisters and real close friends.

"You live in a fishbowl," Crawley said. "Whatever you do everyone knows."

Crawley pointed out the difference between pom and cheer by saying pom is mainly for performing while cheer is aimed at building participation and enthusiasm.

Pommies remain active

"They're all leaders. I just can't say enough about them," Mrs. Lois Meyer, coach, said about the pommies.

This was Mrs. Meyer's first year teaching pom at Marcos de Niza. She was hired at McClintock and worked there for three years. She said teaching pom was a part of her contract there. She kept it up because she really enjoyed it.

Mrs. Meyer said she liked working with the girls here, because they all had a very high skill level.

Some of the activities the pommies were engaged in were the pep assemblies, marching in the Fiesta Bowl Parade, attending camp in Williams Az. with the band members and performing with them. They participated in the ASU pom and cheer clinic where they competed with other pommies in Arizona for first and second places.

The pom line consisted of six seniors, four juniors and nine sophomores. Five girls returned to the squad this year and 14 were inexperienced.

Not many people begin a new job by missing the first couple weeks. However, Mr. Bill Vanney, assistant principal of athletics, was injured in an automobile accident shortly before school started.

Before returning to Tempe from Virginia Mr. Vanney served five years as assistant principal and four years as an athletic principal.

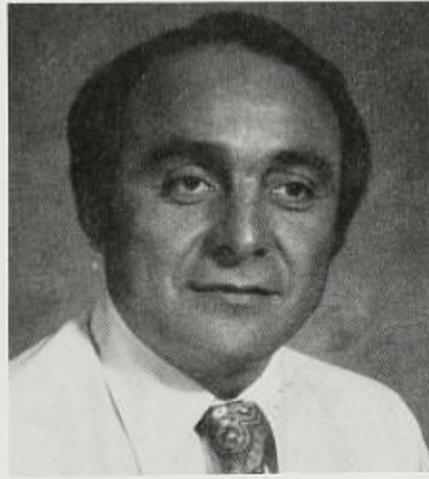

His job is to take care of discipline, attendance for juniors, to oversee the athletic program and evaluate teachers.

Mr. Vanney said Marcos has a beautiful campus and nice settings and "I've enjoyed working with the administration staff."

Following 38 years of teaching, MdN will lose one of its most dedicated teachers: Mrs. Zona Cates, home economics department chairman.

During her eight years at MdN, Mrs. Cates' major contribution besides teaching was purchasing equipment for home ec classrooms. She reflected upon the years with a smile adding that it is extremely satisfying to witness each student's progress.

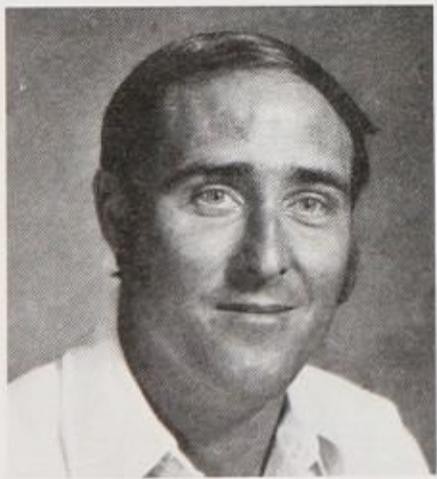

Furthermore, Mrs. Cates said she has enjoyed teaching and has realized that students are aware of whether or not a teacher is truly concerned about them.

However, according to Mrs. Cates, she sometimes becomes disappointed in students' attitudes and their disinterest in learning. Her disappointment lasted but a minute, for once again she said it was rewarding to assist students.

At 16 Mrs. Cates had completed high school and because of her desire to instruct, she became a teacher at 18. She has taught in Arizona for 20 years.

"Because I was a little guy weighing 98 pounds in eighth grade, I was thrown in garbage cans a lot", wrestling coach Jim Weed said.

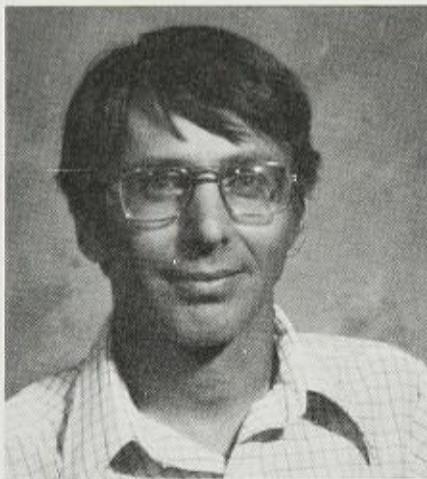

He feels in wrestling the student always can walk off the mat as a winner. Students who are involved in sports are pretty well-rounded people including good manners and individual pride Mr. Weed said.

He not only coached wrestling, but was also a PE and driver's ed teacher. He liked teaching driver's ed because it's something the sophomores are interested in.

"Teaching English allows me to offer insights to students and to receive refreshing new outlooks on situations from the students' responses," Mrs. Connie Duncan said.

"It also allows me to be exposed," she continued, "to a tremendous variety of minds as the communication processes which I teach (speaking and writing) lend themselves to insight in the revelation of the students' ideas and basic characters."

Following seven years as an English and speech teacher, Mrs. Duncan specified her most memorable experiences were those involving "dreaming up goals, new courses, new materials and being able to see the seeds take root as MdN curriculum was developed, tried and revised."

In addition, Mrs. Duncan said "Whatever degree of commitment a teacher is willing to put forth, he or she deserves to maintain the same degree of expectation from each and every student."

"I was a combination student and boxcar unloader," said second-year teacher Mr. Larry Stiner. "While I was working my way through college, I had six different jobs and one pair of blue jeans."

Mr. Stiner received his high school education from a school very similar to Marcos de Niza. "I love to teach. It gives me a chance to relate to kids on a different level and to try and get them involved in the school," the freshman wrestling coach said. "I love to coach, also. I was a PE major in college and coaching gives me a chance to keep in shape and work with more people."

The wine country of California, Nappa Valley, is where Mr. Richard Simpson, history teacher, was born and raised.

Mr. Simpson said he went to the University of California at Berkley. He moved to Sonora, Calif. and taught at Summerville High School for eight years.

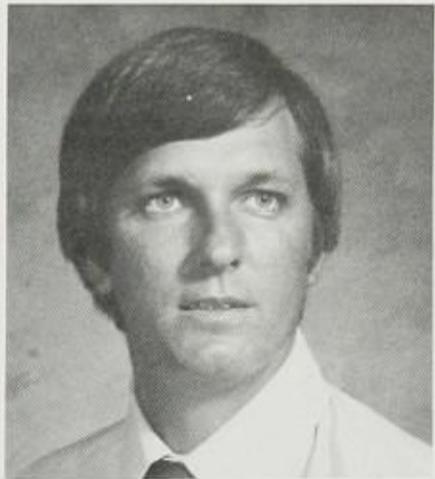

Mr. Simpson and his wife moved here in August and he began teaching the third week of school. He said it was a disadvantage to get students who were pulled out of their classes and put into new ones. He also feels having to move from room to room each day is a disadvantage, because he has to adjust his teaching techniques.

Mr. Simpson said he would rate his job as a seven on a scale of ten because he has to adjust to the large school.

"If you quote me, clean up the grammar" was a 'typical' comment of first-year English teacher Nancy Sainato.

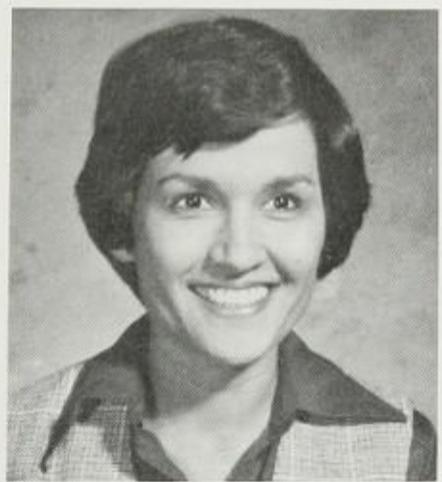

Former Hollywood film-editor and model, Mrs. Sainato described her teaching career in the Tempe Union High School District an "accident," for while obtaining her degree in American Literature at Arizona State University, she applied for a position in the Mesa school district. However, a misprint occurred and she was to student teach at Tempe High.

Through acquaintances with Mrs. Betsy Gruber and her husband, who teaches at Tempe High, Mrs. Sainato was hired at Marcos de Niza after a two-year wait. She said the Tempe Union High School district was "very fine" and she liked the kids. She also commented about the "beautiful buildings" and said the teachers are "very helpful" to new teachers.

Areas Mrs. Smith was responsible for include all student activities, classes and clubs, intramurals, student aid, the book store, special education and the junior part of attendance and discipline.

One of Mrs. Smith's goals is one hundred per cent participation. She said she would like to see this participation both in the classroom and in extra- and co-curricular activities. "I want to see kids feel they have something to offer."

Counseling represented 75 percent of his average work day and "pushing papers" accounted for the remaining 25 percent. Counselor David Meyer said he enjoys working with students and rates his job as a nine plus on a ten-point scale.

Originally an English teacher, Mr. Meyer came to the school six years ago and has been department chairman for half of those years. "I was here the second year it opened, and because it was a new school, I thought I'd have a better chance of getting into counseling."

Even though Mr. Meyer liked English, he soon discovered he liked counseling better. "I was kind of 'burnt out' in English," he joked. "I enjoyed the classroom, but when I first started (counseling), I enjoyed working with students to help solve their personal problems."

Mr. Meyer began his day by reporting to work at about 7:30 a.m. and "usually checks the appointment book and makes out passes for the students I need to see during that day."

He is currently working toward a doctorate in Curriculum and Instruction" and plans to "teach at a college level or to be a consultant on curriculum matters." In the meantime, he will continue to counsel, advise and attend workshops.

He said the AV room was run well before he came, but it's now taken on his own personality. He has had a lot of training in television, so he formed a TV club.

Mr. Adelman said the AV department works with students who need help with production problems in class. Supplying equipment such as slide projectors and film strip projectors is also a major project in his department. He said more than 450 deliveries are made each month.

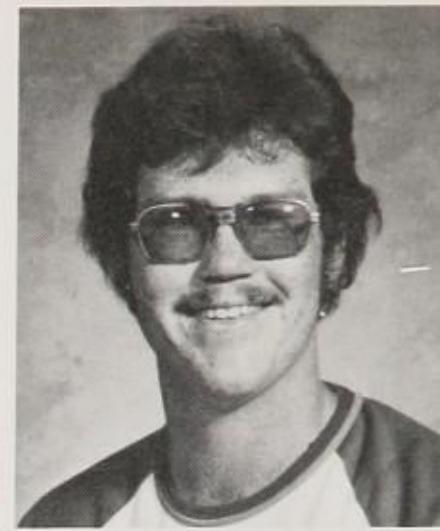

Posters, lettering, dry mounting and laminating are done for teachers along with the displays in the LRC window and the handling of student ID's. Mr. Adelman said more than 100 graphic products and 200 slides are done in a month for students and teachers.

Marty Colburn

Following high school graduation in 1978, Marty Colburn became a campus cop with the assistance of the Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) program.

"It's a strange feeling working the other side," Marty said. However, becoming acquainted with students is an advantage. Some of the seniors, he continued, are older than he, but no one was aware of the age difference.

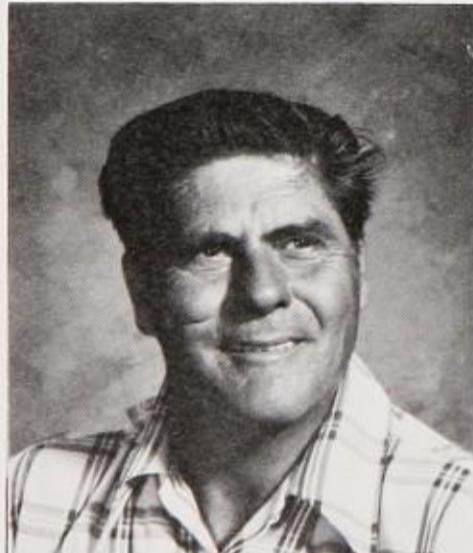

Referring to the ditching problem, Marty said, "When someone is out of class, he is usually up to no good." He also encountered problems such as theft, vandalism, drugs and fighting. Marty had the authority to use force, though he never did. The campus cop said he did not allow back-talk, because that was not what his job required.

In addition, Marty commended the administration. "They have been extremely helpful to me."

David,
Howard told me he invited
you to church &
I wish you would come Chemistry isn't the most exciting class to get to know someone in. I think although a super neat guy I only took you may print I love you for you for your calculator

And so the transition continues, from '79 to '80, from winning to losing and from boy to man.

It was a good year for the staff. At least I accomplished my goals. While there will always be places that could use some improvement or revision, generally, the book is well done.

While this book boasts no new styles or layouts, it is unique in its quality.

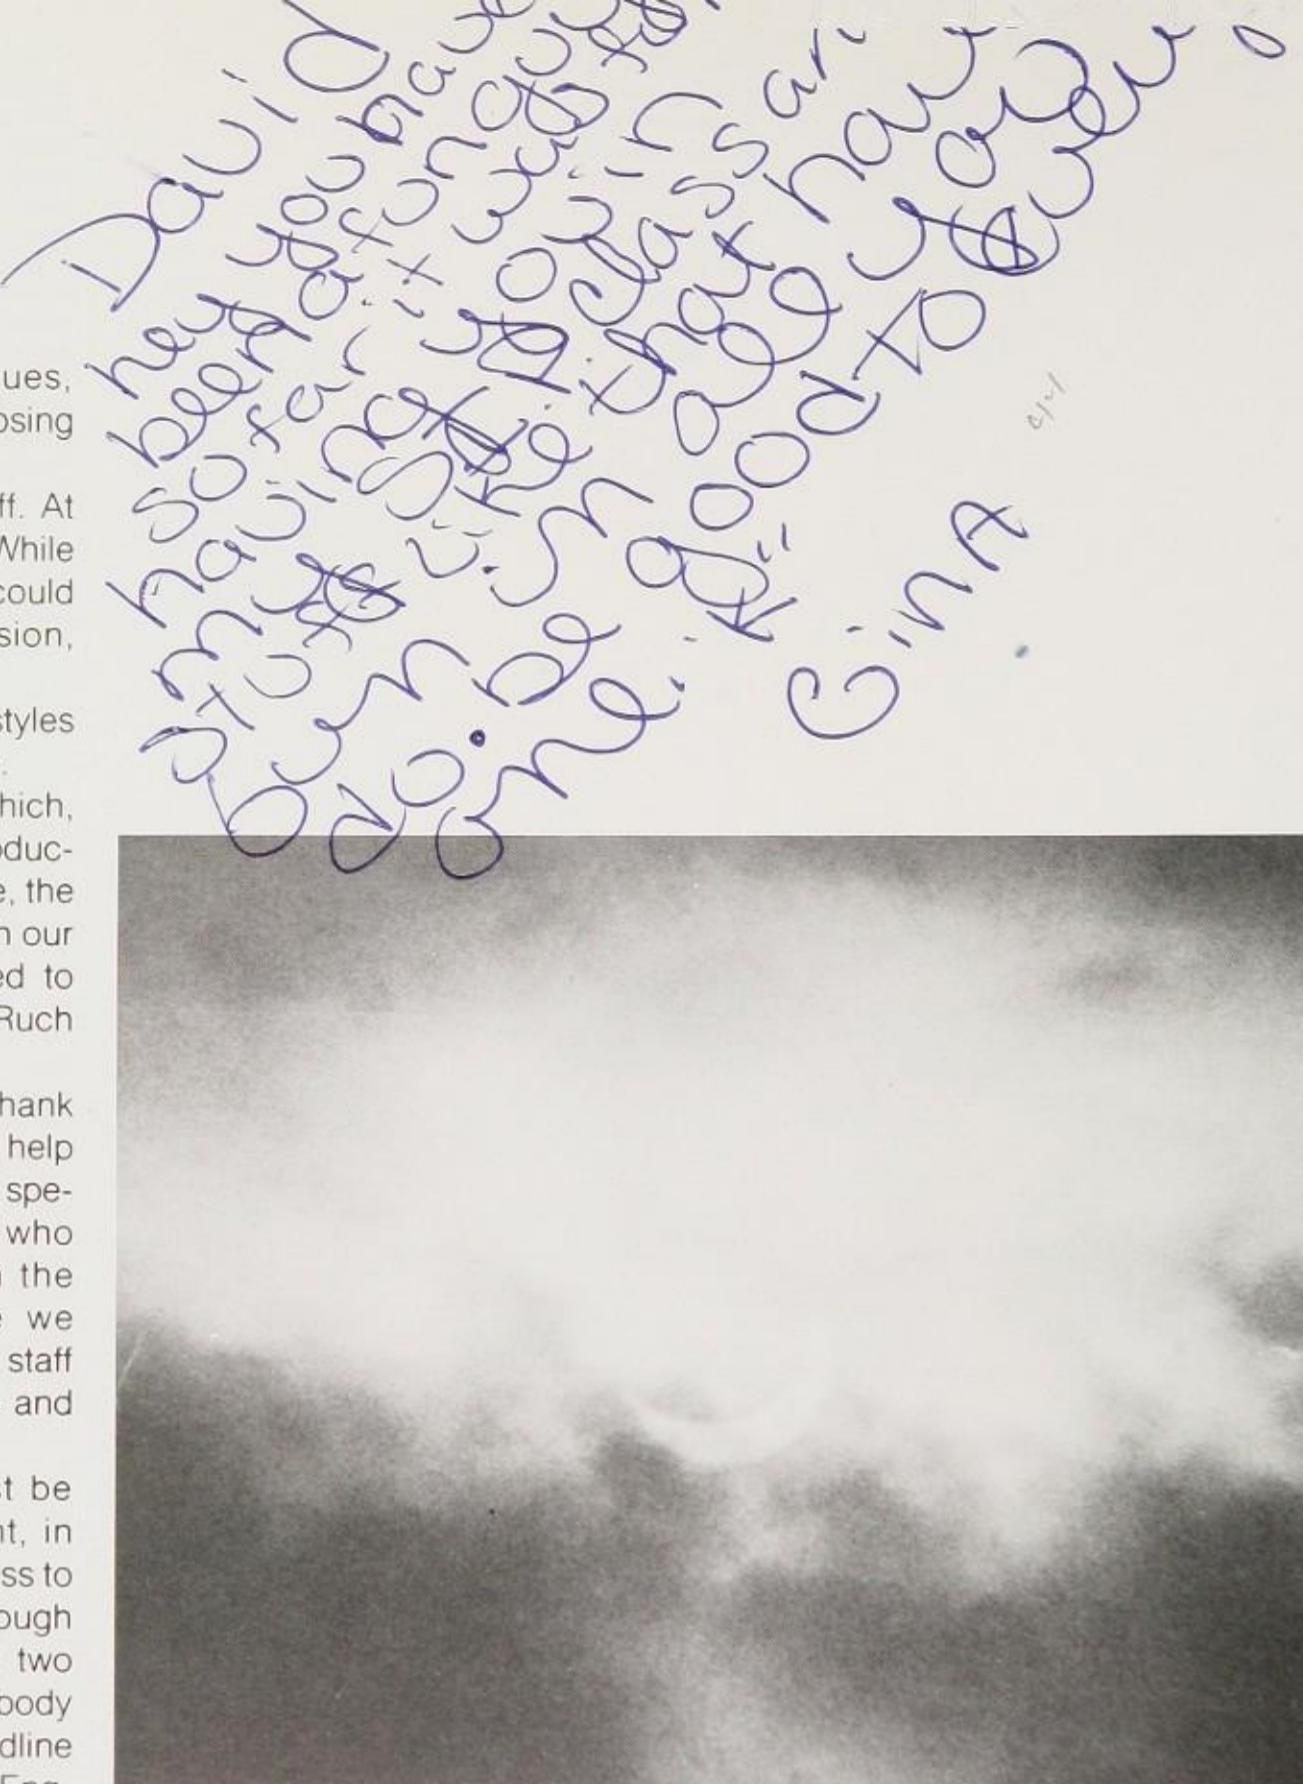

I was lucky to have a staff, which, even after last year's excellent production, wanted to improve. Of course, the advisor had a great deal to do with our success, which can be attributed to her guidance. I am pleased Mrs. Ruch was able to return this year.

On the staff I would like to thank photo editor Jeff Hubbell for his help and advice in all situations. Also a special thanks to Denise Bruskas, who was always there to help with the deadline no matter how late we stayed. While each person on the staff did his part for the book, Denise and Jeff were especially helpful.

Another special thanks must be made to the English department, in particular, Mrs. Miles, for willingness to help when Mrs. Ruch was ill. Though the time period was only about two weeks the reassurance that somebody was there to help during a deadline was comforting. Also, thank you English department for your leftovers prior to Christmas; they came in handy especially when the clock got close to dinner time.

Being in charge of yearbook production my senior year has been the greatest challenge of my high school career. I could never thank enough the people who helped me.

Sam, I'm this time I'm not going to write the usual old annual stuff. Sorry you can't come along somewhere else
this year over the summer and have fun (so you summer and tend some more) have fun over the summer (sorry I couldn't round
see ya round
